STATE SOLONS FINISH WORK EARLY TODAY

1929 Legislature Comes to End in Bedlam of Noise and Confusion

SACRAMENTO, May 16.—(UP)—The 1929 legislature came to its end at 1 a. m., today, in a bedlam of noise and confusion.

After working all through the afternoon, evening and well past midnight, the legislators celebrated the finish with a fun battle in both houses.

Wastebaskets were thrown back and forth across the chambers. Desks were slammed and the air filled with fluttering bills torn from bill files. Everyone shouted, shook hands and went back to hotels to pack up.

Several legislative upsets marked the closing hours. Governor Young vetoed three bills, and his action on each was upheld by the legislature. Within 24 hours after it was sent to his desk, the governor vetoed the hydraulic mining bill, calling for resumption of that industry.

He turned "thumbs down" on the measures raising the salary of Los Angeles superior court judges from $9000 to $10,000 a year and providing for a uniform state contribution of $4000 to salaries of all superior court judges.

The newspaper libel bill by Senator Frank Merriam of Long Beach lost by three votes in the assembly which also defeated the teachers' retirement measure after opponents declared the teachers didn't want the bill passed. The Wagy measure calling for $60,000 for a teletype communicating system between Sacramento, San Francisco and Los Angeles for use in state business and criminal detection was adopted.

The senate approved the 24-hour school for youthful incorrigibles, state publication of free supplementary textbooks and asked congress to restrict immigration of Filipinos and invoke the quota system for Mexicans. Five more superior court judges were granted to Los Angeles county.

Governor Young now has 30 days or until June 19 to work through the legislative bill heap and decide the measures he will permit to become law and those he will allow to die by the pocket veto route.

MAIL ORDER BRIDE IS FACING GALLOWS

SONORA, May 16.—(UP)—The legal machinery by which Tuolumne county authorities hope to send Mrs. Eva Brandon Rablen, 32-year-old Texas mail order bride, to the gallows for poisoning her husband, was prepared to be whirled into motion as Sonora anxiously awaited her arraignment tomorrow.

Tear Gas Used By Guardsmen On Picketers

More Than 100 Striking Workers Arrested After Clash Today

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., May 16.—(UP)—Less than 12 hours after Carter county authorities received warning that the water mains of this strike-ridden textile town were to be destroyed, unknown persons today dynamited the mains and cut off the town's water supply.

Subsequently, more than 100 striking workers of the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff corporation rayon plants were arrested by National Guardsmen in fresh clashes with "loyal workers" en route to their jobs.

There was no known connection between the dynamiting of the water main and the labor dispute which affects more than 5000 industralized hill folk of East Tennessee, but Sheriff J. M. Moreland arrested George Crowe, said to be a striker, as the man who warned him that the dynamiting was threatened.

Tear gas was used by National Guardsmen to disrupt the ranks of strike pickets who attempted to thwart efforts of "loyal workers" to reach the plants. Several were injured in numerous brushes between the opposing forces, and one newspaperman, John Moutoux of the Knoxville News-Sentinel was arrested, charged with being "a suspicious character."

Meanwhile, during the night the Gap Creek road leading to the German-owned rayon silk plants, seat of the strike, was blocked for a considerable stretch by trees felled across it by unknown persons. Hundreds of tacks were strewn along highways, ruining tires of busses and taxis in which "loyal workers" were taken to the plants.

Cutting of the water main and the fresh outbreak between strikers and loyal workers climaxed more tha a month of disorders growing out of the refusal of wage increases demanded by the rayon workers, who have since become affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America.

INDIANA JURY TO OPEN ATTACK QUIZ

INDIANAPOLIS, May 16.—(UP)—A county grand jury will investigate the story of a former Indianapolis girl who charged she was kidnaped and attacked a year ago by Leland W. Abbott, held as a suspect in a torso murder at Los Angeles.

The complainant is Miss Jessie Stevens, 23, Muncie, Ind. She told prosecutors Paul Rhoadarmer and John Willis that Abbott accosted her on the street, June 17, 1928, seized her and drove out of the city in an automobile. The attack, she charged, occurred outside the city. She said he beat her, twisted her arms and legs.

HOUSE LEADERS ACCEPT SENATE RELIEF BILL

Action on Measure Will Not Be Taken Until Tariff Bill Disposed Of

WASHINGTON, May 16. — (UP)—In order not to block the farm relief legislation, house leaders agreed today to accept the senate farm bill and send it to a conference of committees representing the senate and house so that differences between the two houses may be amicably threshed out.

In reaching their decision, the leaders abandoned their old plan of sending the bill back to the senate because it contains the debenture clause to which they, like President Hoover, have strong objections.

The house rules committee will be instructed to prepare a rule saying the house considers the debenture clause an infringement on its constitutional perogative of originating all revenue legislation. The resolution will add, however, that because of the necessity in expediting farm relief legislation the house will agree to thresh the matter out in conference.

Virtually all Republican leaders of consequence attended the meeting in the office of Speaker Longworth. Ranking members of the agriculture committee urged leaders to adopt the milder course to avoid strife between the two houses which would endanger farm relief legislation.

The house leaders were confident the disputed debenture clause can be eliminated from the bill in conference. The five house members they have appointed all are opposed to the clause, Haugen of Iowa, Williams of Illinois, Purnell of Indiana, Kincheloe of Kentucky, and Aswell of Louisiana. Of the five members appointed by the senate to meet with the house committee, three voted against the debenture plan, McNary of Oregon, Capper of Kansas and Ransdell of Louisiana.

So the conference committee will have on it only two men who really want the debenture, Senators Norris of Nebraska and Smith of South Carolina.

They may encounter some difficulty in getting consent of the senate to kill the provision but Republican leaders already are working on the debenture proponents to bring them in line. It is claimed they may get the necessary three votes to reverse the decision of the senate.

UNIVERSITY HEAD QUITS NEXT YEAR

BERKELEY, May 16.—(UP)—Dr. William Wallace Campbell, president of the University of California and one of the nation's leading scientists, will resign his university post July 1, 1930.

In announcing his proposed retirement, Dr. Campbell said he was acting in accordance with the established system at the university, which calls for retirement of executives and professors at the age of 68.

Dr. Campbell has headed the university for the last six years and is one of the most beloved "prexys" the institution has ever known.

Florida Oranges Found In State Minus Fruit Fly

SACRAMENTO, May 16.—(UP)—No traces of the deadly Mediterranean fruit fly were found in an examination of six oranges which reached California from the infested regions of Florida, A. E. Morrison, county horticulturist, announced today.

The oranges, discovered in a box car here, were steamed and burned by inspectors inside the car.

The fruit, shipped from Yumatella, Fla., to Wickford, R. I., were dislodged from their box during unloading in the Rhode Island city and were inadvertently mixed with an oyster shipment to California.

$20,000,000 OFFERED FOR BOSTON PAPER

WASHINGTON, May 16. — (UP) — Testimony indicating that power interests sought to purchase the Boston Post for $20,000,000 in cash, was given the federal trade commission today by Richard Grozier, sole owner of that newspaper.

Grozier said he received an offer from Charles O'Malley, Boston advertising agent, who said he represented "the Insull interests."

The offer was not taken seriously by the Post, Grozier said, because the paper was not and is not now on the market. Furthermore, he said, he was convinced "that O'Malley was talking through his hat."

In previous hearings the commission has learned of newspaper investments aggregating more than $10,000,000 held by the International Paper and Power company in 11 newspapers. Efforts of the International to obtain an interest in about two score other papers also have been revealed. There has been no previous mention of the Insull power group in connection with newspaper investments.

CHARGES AGAINST GOV. LONG DROPPED

BATON ROUGE, La., May 16. —(UP)—Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana today won his fight with the state legislature, which sought to impeach him.

All charges against him were dropped and the senate court of impeachment adjourned sine die.

The motion to quash the charges against the governor was introduced by Senator P. M. Gilbert. The motion declared that the rejection of the Manship charge yesterday had removed the last argument of the prosecution that the house had been legally in session.

Motion for adjournment was made unanimous after a caucus of the 24 senators who did not sign the statement. As a final act, a declaration was read into the senate records deploring the action of the bolting senators and stating that to continue would mean only unnecessary expense.

PAROLE REVOKED

District Attorney Z. B. West today ordered the arrest of Vincent Nieblas, 30, on a charge of violation of parole. Nieblas was arrested January 1, 1928, on a charge of sale of liquor and sentenced to six months in the county jail. He was paroled on May 24 of the same year. The parole was revoked yesterday because of alleged wife desertion.

CONNOLLY HELD TO ANSWER ON ATTACK CHARGE

WILLIAM H. CONNOLLY, Garden Grove resident, faced Justice Kenneth Morrison this morning as a result of an alleged attack with a pistol said to have been made on Connolly's wife and 16-year-old daughter-in-law at Garden Grove Sunday night.

After the examination, Connolly who was charged in the complaint filed by his wife, Lillie, with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder, was held to answer to the Superior court. He was also held to answer on a second count charging possession of a deadly weapon.

Connolly, who was arrested after the attack Sunday night by Deputies Humiston and Mozley, is said by his wife to be an ex-convict who had been pardoned from the Missouri penitentiary after conviction on a charge of fourth degree manslaughter. The prisoner is held in jail pending trial, with bail set at $5000.

MANY MORE OF INJURED NEAR DEATH

City Remains Dazed As Ambulances Rush Bodies To Undertaking Shops

THREE PROBES START

Tales of Heroism of Nurses And Doctors Revealed By Those Who Escaped

CLEVELAND, O., May 16.—(UP)—As the death toll in the Cleveland clinic explosion disaster reached 126 this afternoon, many of the rescuers were near death.

An order was issued by city officials for any who had come in contact with the gas which killed most of the victims to report for medical attention, no matter how slightly they had been affected.

Four firemen were in serious condition and were given blood transfusions. Doctors, nurses, police and citizens were in hospitals for treatment. Most of these had entered the fume-filled building in rescue work.

An automatic fire door that would not work was found today by Health Commissioner H. L. Rockwood who headed the first investigation at the scene of the explosions.

Scores of other victims were in hospitals, some with poison fumes in their lungs and by no means out of danger.

The city remained dazed and horror stricken. Ambulances clanged through the streets, en route to the morgue with bodies, and to undertakers' with identified dead.

A tri-fold investigation was under way to determine how the $500,000 clinic was transformed to suddenly yesterday noon into a charnel house of poison gas, flames and panic.

Gov. Myers Y. Cooper announced all state agencies had been ordered to join in the investigation. Coroner A. J. Pearse was to confer with all county officials to ascertain cause of the blasts and fire. An official commission was named by City Manager W. R. Hopking to begin a hearing.

Authorities agreed that the blame lay in the X-ray storage room in the basement of the four story brick structure and that the deadly fumes swirled from ignited X-ray film. But they disagreed as to whether the clouds of dark yellow gas that snuffed out so many lives were nitrous peroxide or a bromine and iodine vapor.

Twelve bodies, seared and yellowed by the gas, were found in the X-ray room. Twelve other bodies, equally discolored, were taken from the roof. Between those points were many sprawled bodies of dead and injured.

A nurse was found lying dead across a wheel chair bearing a patient she had tried vainly to wheel to safety. Some patients were trapped and killed in bed.

Patients heard a muffled roar from the X-ray basement room. All fire doors immediately closed. Poison gas, generated from the explosion, was forced through the ventilator shaft by the heat.

Those on the first floor ran out to safety or remained to warn persons on the floors above. Telephone operators stayed at their posts to give warnings. Confusion indescrib-

KILLER HAUNTED BY VICTIM'S EYES

DENVER, Colo., May 16.—(UP)—Haunted by the eyes of the man he admits killing on the Arizona desert, Richard Burrows, 19-year-old Chicago youth, today was prepared to go to Phoenix, Ariz., to face charges of murdering a young salesman.

Burrows told how he was stranded at Aguila, Ariz., penniless, friendless and homesick after he had run away from St. Johns' Military academy, Clearfield, Wis., "tired of discipline." The salesman, Jack Martin, offered Burrows a lift across the desert.

In the middle of the desert near Beardsley, Ariz., with Martin sleeping and Burrows driving, the youth said, he decided to rob Martin. He shot Martin and threw the body in a ditch.

BIBLE SCHOOL INSTITUTE WILL ATTRACT MANY

According to James Hughes, registrar, registrations already made indicate a large attendance at the institute for daily vacation Bible school workers, opening in the First Methodist church here at 4:30 p. m., tomorrow, and closing at 6 p. m., Saturday. Hughes stressed the point that those wishing to attend the institute dinner, Friday night, should make reservations early tomorrow morning by telephoning him at 1300.

It was revealed today that in addition to the faculty already announced, Miss Rose Scott, director of religious education for the Presbyterian churches of Southern California, has been secured to head the section on administration of the Daily Vacation Bible schools.

The program arranged is a comprehensive one and covers all phases of vacation Bible school work, Hughes said.

The spirit of the Santa Ana Council of Religious Education in opening the institute to those who will participate in the school work is receiving praise from many interested in the work, it was stated by Hughes.

The Rev. H. Haywood, pastor of the White Temple church, in Anaheim, has written the council, expressing his appreciation of its generosity in extending workers outside the city the privilege of attending the institute.

"I thank you heartily for your kindly consideration," wrote the Anaheim pastor. "You have truly outlined a most inviting and attractive program."

DEATH TOLL IN CLINIC BLAST NOW OVER 125

able followed. Fire raced up a rear stairway and spread. Fifteen minutes after the first xeplosion, a second came, driving rescuers back. Forty-five minutes later, a third occurred, tearing out pipes, crumbling the walls and breaking windows.

Persons standing outside were felled by the force of the first blast. One passerby was reported to have suffered a broken arm.

A policeman hurried up, smalled the fumes many yards away, and dashed to an alarm box. Soon ambulance, fire apparatus and commandereed uatomobiles formed a steady stream to the scene.

Ladders were strung to windows of the three upper floors. Policemen and firemen with gas masks carried out dead and injured, wrapped them in blankets and laid them in rows on the lawns. They spread life nets to catch those leaping to safety.

Dr. George W. Crile, noted surgeon and head of the clinic, rushed from the operating room of the clinic hospital nearby and took charge of the medical aid.

All through the day he labored and at night transferred his activities to the hospitals to which the injured had been taken.

As night fell, the morgue became the principal seat of tragedy. The bodies taxed the limits of the drab, gray structure. Police kept back the curious and permitted only relatives to view the dead.

Shrieks rose when wives, mothers and sisters identified kin. The hoarse cries of husbands, fathers and brothers broke in now and again.

Among the dead were Dr. Charles E. Locke, brain specialist and Dr. Edgar Hunter, expert on the clinic stagg. Several nurses lost their lives.

J. Barker Smith, secretary-manager of the Cleveland Athletic club and president of the National Association of Club Managers, was another of those killed.

Dr. Carl Helwig, bent over a cot at Mt. Sinai hospital to treat a victim of the explosion. The victim was dead. It was his wife, technician at the clinic hospital.

Patrolman Ernest Staab made the supreme sacrifice. He was one of the first to run into the blazing clinic. He emerged carrying a man near death. A pulmotor was used on the man and he was expected to recoved.

Stabb went back again and again. Some said he carried 21 persons from the building. He drove a police car into the rear yard of a hospital, helped carry in those rescued, and then collapsed. He died several hours later.

RUNAWAY BOYS ARE HELD IN SAN DIEGO

Police authorities, who have been conducting a search for Robert Anderson, 13, of 718 North Baker street, were informed this morning that Anderson and a companion, named Welch, were being held in the detention home in San Diego.

The Anderson boy left his home at 7:45 yesterday morning, according to a report made by his parents, last night, when they asked police to institute a search, and did not report to school. Mrs. Anderson informed police officers that the mother of the Welch boy, who lives at 112 North Flower street, lives in El Paso and expressed the belief that the boys probably had started for the Texas city.

The parents of the Anderson boy have been informed that the boys are being held in San Diego.

Police News

Andy Kolet, 50, laborer, who lives at 139 North Los Angeles street, Anaheim, was lodged in the county jail yesterday to begin serving a sentence of 30 days in lieu of paying a $30 fine assessed in the Anaheim court, yesterday, on a drunk charge. Kolet's name was the only one appearing on the entry book in the jail yesterday.

The population of the county jail is continuing to show a steady decrease. The figure stood at 150 this morning.

Officers C. W. Wolford, Paul Cozad and Harry Fink made a hurried call to the home of Earl D. Christenson, 516 West Santa Clara avenue, at 9:45 last night in response to a report phoned in by a neighbor in the absence of the Christensen family that there were suspicious persons about the place. The officers reported that no one was found.

Boys playing in the street on North Sycamore last night were reported by a resident of the neighborhood to be turning on irrigation water. Officer C. W. Wolford rounded up the mischief-makers and ordered them to stay out of the ditches.

Mrs. L. E. Trantham, 823 Minter street, reported to police headquarters last night that boys were breaking a sign on the front lawn.

$20,000,000 OFFERED FOR BOSTON PAPER

Grozier presented for the commission's record today, O'Malley's ofwer was described.

After telling that O'Malley said he represented the Insull utility interests who were willing to pay $20,000,000 for the Post, Carbury said it was his opinion that O'Malley's offer was largely "a bluff." Carbury said O'Malley had told him that Insull already had bought the Indianapolis News and was seeking to buy up 59 or 60 newspapers.

"It is not likely," Carbury's report added, "that Insull would pick Charley O'Malley to handle such large deals. According to Charley, they expert to round up 50 or 60 newspapers. This would react terrifically against them as the people would not stand for it. They have shown such utter contempt for the public, however, they might try to get away with this. My advise is not to take Charley seriously."

Court Notes

John Myracle was released yesterday on his own recognizance, by Justice Kenneth E. Morrison, after Myracle, who is charged with non-support of his minor child, arranged a bond guaranteeing regular monthly payments of $50. Myracle was arrested Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff M. E. Jemison on a warrant issued over nine months previously.

We Do It Better

WE TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Every milker and milk handler has passed a thorough medical examination.

Every cow in our raw milk herd has been tested for abortion (a possible source of undulant fever) and the reactors sold.

All the milk we sell qualifies for Grade "A" raw milk and could be sold for such, even though we pasteurize some of it.

All of the milk that comes into this plant for distribution is tested by experts. There are hundreds of these tests run daily. They include analyses for bacteria, milk fat, sediment, solids, flavor, etc. We follow the Standard Methods of Milk Analysis by the American Public Health Association.

Extending our laboratory control to the herds has brought the bacteria counts extremely low.

A full time veterinarian looks after our raw milk herd health.

WE CHECK UP ON OUR PRECAUTIONS

The two State Licensed bacteriologists who operate our laboratory follow through on all milk examinations. If there is any slight lowering in quality from any herd, an immediate examination of cows, methods and equipment follows. There is no deception or evasion possible. Hence, the Excelsior preferred quality is maintained.

AIR SERVICE TO L. A. TO START NEXT MONDAY

Santa Anans interested in the establishment of a branch of the Continental Air express in this city, with headquarters at the Eddie Martin Flying field, will be interested to know that the daily service to Los Angeles by plane will begin Monday, May 20, when a schedule of two planes daily each way will be in operation.

A. B. Stocker, district manager, who has his headquarters in the office of Mayor Frank Purinton, 206 West Second street, today announced that the Curtiss Robin plane which attracted so much attention last Saturday, when it was stationed at the field here, would be in this city tomorrow morning for at least an hour, beginning at 9:35, where it will be ready for inspection and trial flights for all those who might be interested in visiting the field. The plane will be piloted by Dana Boler, intrepid young airman who conducted last Saturday's flights. The craft is a replica of those that will be put into service here.

In initiating the schedule, the Harry Sperl Aero corporation, known as the Continental Air Express, will insure taxi service at both the Santa Ana and the Los Angeles ends of the line, so that business men, with whom speed is a factor of special importance, will be assured of the least possible time between the two points.

Books containing tickets for six rides are to be placed on sale for the convenience of those who expect to take frequent advantage of the aerial transportation to Los Angeles and already 50 prominent business men of the city have subscribed, it is asserted.

CODLING MOTH, APHIS SPRAYING STARTS MAY 27

May 27 was announced today as the approved date for starting spraying activities for control of codling moth and aphis in walnut groves. The announcement was made by Deputy Horticultural Commissioner W. H. Wright at spraying demonstrations staged in the Clyde Morris grove, on Seventeenth street, near Grand avenue, and in the F. K. Kirker grove, on Orangethorpe avenue.

Pointing out that the spraying season will last but two or three weeks, Wright urged growers to make arrangements with commercial operators for having their spray work done. It is expected that approximately 7000 acres of walnut groves will be sprayed this year. Tested basic arsenate of lead for spraying can be obtained at the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association plant, the Richland association plant, in Orange, and the Anaheim Walnut Growers' association plant, Wright stated.

Dr. Ralph H. Smith, of the Riverside citrus experiment station, outlined the life history of the codling moth at today's demonstrations.

At field meetings on irrigation, yesterday, Farm Advisor H. E. Wahlberg pointed out that tests had shown shallow irrigation to be in order. Where winter irrigation has been practiced the moisture content in the soil is satisfactory, he said. Wahlberg stressed the important relation between moisture and proper sizing up of the nuts, pointing out that where they have ample moisture until the middle of June they can be expected to size up well. Between June and August adequate moisture will be needed to fill out the nuts, Wahlberg stated.

WORK OF LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OUTLINED AT SESSION OF NEWLY-FORMED S. A. GROUP

The value and need of organized womanhood for the accomplishment of civic improvements was brought to a clear focus at the meeting, this morning, of the Santa Ana League of Women Voters, which was held in the council chamber in the City hall. Mrs. Ludwig Frank, past president of the San Francisco center, was present and told the newly-organized Santa Ana league something of the activity of the northern group.

Outlining the work accomplished there, Mrs. Frank said the center based its interests on the national program. She gave a detailed account of the various changes that the women in the Bay city had effected for government efficiency, in the legal status of women, city government, public welfare and child welfare.

The center work is divided into 19 different committees, under three division heads, mechanics, public welfare and education. The San Francisco league was organized in 1911 and became affiliated with the national league when it was established in 1920.

Used To Be Unladylike

"It used to be considered unladylike for women to be interested in politics," she declared, "but now it is not even stylish not to be affiliated with such an organization as ours."

Stating that the essential idea behind the League of Women Voters is that of spreading the civic education movement, Mrs. Frank said that in no way does the league become drawn into any partisan situation unless its own opinion is needed and requested.

Mrs. George B. Mongold, of Los Angeles, presiding officer, introduced W. C. Jerome, county auditor, who urged the women to support the coming school bond issue. Jerome said that politics and the politician, when looked at in the correct light, are none other than the interests and those interested in civic affairs and public welfare.

The advance and co-operation of women in politics has, according to Jerome, done much to elevate the standards of politics. He said that citizens are pledged under the state law to maintain educational institutions for the youth of today. This city now finds those facilities limited and the speaker declared that if the citizens of this community do not see fit to vote for the school bonds, their children will be taught in tents.

Under the present evaluation, taxes would be increased only 25 cents on the $100, Jerome said.

Mrs. Mock Speaks

Mrs. Carl Mock delivered an address on the subject, "The Consolidation Acts of 1927." She gave a short talk on the state governor's cabinet and the state government departmental consolidations recently effected. Instead of the former 140 departments, there now are 13 consolidated commissions. Her detailed explanation concerning these showed the tremendous gain in efficiency of state government in California.

Delegates appointed by Mrs. Mangold to attend the state convention of the league, which is to be held in Pasadena, tomorrow and Saturday, were Mrs. J. D. Campbell, Mrs. Carl Mock, Mrs. A. J. Knight and, as alternates, Mrs. E. M. Blake, Miss Octavia Goldsworthy and Mrs. G. Sharp.

The delegates are to convene in the Huntington hotel and the routine work of both mornings will include a discussion of the budget, according to an announcement made today. A trip through the Huntington library and art gallery and the Huntington gardens has been planned as a special feature of the convention program.

Speakers will include Mrs. George P. Costigan jr., of Berkeley, former vice president of the California State league, who has just succeeded Mrs. Ernest Mott as director of the seventh league of the National League of Women Voters.

A convention feature which also holds special attraction for the Santa Ana organization is the round table luncheon, scheduled for Saturday noon, at which time the newly-organized leagues will be honored.

Further announcements during the business session this morning included a notice to the effect that at the next meeting of the Santa Ana league, on June 30, in the council chamber, Senator Nelson T. Edwards will be the speaker. A board meeting was called for May 29, to be held at the Y.W.C.A.

Peace Restored As Deputy Brings Youth, Girl Home

Deputies in the sheriff's office had visions of another hot kidnaping case, last night, when Jessie Haydon phoned in a report that a girl in Delhi had been kidnaped and taken away in a car.

Investigation by Deputy Harry Carter revealed that Frank Camarillo, 20, had taken Nicha Espanocho, 23, to the home of his brother, Louie Camarillo, in Tustin. Carter returned both to the girl's home, in Delhi, which, he reported, was the center of a hotbed of hysterics and excitement that had spread over the entire community.

Father Orgail, Mexican priest, who assisted Deputy Carter in restoring peace and order, took the situation in hand and agreed to be responsible for the young couple, according to the report filed by Carter.

'MISS COUNTY' CANDIDATES AT 40 ET 8 MEET

Each candidate distributed ballots and all were very well pleased with their reception. These young women are industriously working to put over the campaign in which the 40 and 8 is striving to raise funds to carry on its work among the under-privileged children of Orange county and vicinity.

There still is an opportunity for mothers who wish to register babies in the baby show, which is another feature of the campaign. The registration books still are short about 20 babies to fill the quota which has been set. Examinations will start on Monday, May 27. Each mother will be notified as to time and place of her baby's examination. Dr. F. L. Chapline, who is chairman of the baby show, is busy arranging for the staff of doctors and nurses who will make the examinations.

The prizes in the baby show and Miss Orange County election will be awarded at the Valencia Orange show, in Anaheim, on the night of June 2. The termination of the campaign will feature a dance in the Legion hall, Orange, on the night of June 3.

WALLACE-KIER FIRM TO SELL FEDERAL TIRES

Effective today, the Wallace-Kier Tire Service, formerly known in Santa Ana as the Wallace Tire company, will become Southern Orange county distributor for Federal tires, according to announcement made today by L. A. (Bear) Wallace, partner.

Decision to act as distributor for these tires was made following the consolidation of the H. C. Kier tire service of Anaheim and the Wallace Tire company, as announced last week in the Register. Kier has been distributor for Federal tires in the north half of the county for some time, and this fact was most dominating in the decision for the new firm to act throughout the entire county.

This change-over from the old line as previously handled by Wallace to the new line of Federal tires will not affect the service guarantees made to his old customers, Wallace stated, as it will be the intention of the new firm to service these customers, as promised, in the new location of the firm at South Main street and Chestnut. In fact, Wallace stated, the new location, with better equipment and nicer surroundings, will enable the firm to service patrons much better than formerly.

Federal tires, Wallace said, are guaranteed for the life of the tire to be free from defects in workmanship and material, regardless of the number of miles they run, and are tires that he can heartily recommend to his past and present patrons. The firm, following the consolidation, is now being known as the Wallace-Kier Tire Service.

BREAKFASTERS PERFECT PLANS FOR BIG RODEO

Since interest of the Santa Ana Breakfast club members centers at present in the big rodeo which they will present in conjunction with the El Rodeo Riding club, next Sunday morning, at the county fair grounds, this morning's breakfast at St. Ann's Inn was given over entirely to discussion and perfecting of plans for the event.

Credit for the success which promises to attend the big event has been accorded George Boyd, prominent in both organizations but who, as an enthusiastic worker of the Breakfast club group, succeeded in gaining the interest of riding club members in furthering the plans. Boyd, as general chairman of the committee on arrangements, this morning reported that he had succeeded in "rounding up" horses from all over the county until there will be from 100 to 150 entries in the various events. He already has completed arrangements for adequate stable room and for having the riding field in excellent condition.

With these matters attended to, Boyd will direct a party of Breakfast club workers in getting the dining hall in order for serving the breakfast with which the day's celebration will start at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Tickets to the number of nearly 500 already have been disposed of for this feature and Eugene Kahen, Breakfast club secretary, today declared that other reservations must be made at once by those planning to be present, as 650 has been set as the absolute limit of those who may be accommodated. These tickets may be secured from Kahen, in the Sample shop; from Bob Gram, in the Kelley Drug store, or in the Santa Ana Drug store.

It has been emphasized that rodeo events on the program will be open to the general public with no charges either for admission or parking space, the breakfast being the sole part for which charge will be made. Oil Field Is Endangered By Rig Blaze

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 16.—Quick response on the part of the Huntington Beach fire department saved the Huntington Beach oil field from a serious blaze at 4 o'clock this morning, when the Albert well rig was burned to the ground. Two tanks of oil within 40 feet of the well and nearby rigs were saved through the quick action of the firemen. A short in the electric drive motor was blamed as the cause of the conflagration. The well was pumping at the time of the fire.

The well is a total loss, the rig having collapsed on the motors, wrecking the entire outfit, it is said. The valuation of the rig and pumping apparatus was placed above $10,000.

Two Are Held To Answer On Counts Of Driving Drunk

Two men were held to answer to the superior court on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor after their examination, this morning, in the court of Justice Kenneth Morrison.

The men, Percy F. Hall and Pedro Quesada, were committed to jail, pending their trials, in default of $1000 bail each, fixed by Judge Morrison.

Complaints were filed in both cases by Chief Criminal Deputy F. W. Howard. Hall was arrested on May 11, after a chase on Los Alamitos boulevard, and Quesada was taken in custody on May 13.

RECEPTION TO BE ACCORDED MISSIONARIES

Threats of cannibals and the dangers in a land of mysteries hold no fears for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mosley, Alliance missionaries to Tibet. This young couple plans within a few weeks to return to their mission work in the fields of ignorance in that little civilized land on the outskirts of China.

A reception will be held for them in the Christian Missionary and Alliance church here tomorrow night. The service will be held at 7:30 in the chapel and Mosley will at that time deliver an address on "Evolution," taken from a recent debate in Occidental college in which he was the winner. The popular young missionary has been attending the college and will graduate before leaving this year for Tibet.

Following the service, members and friends who gather to honor the two missionaries will be invited to the parsonage and there be entertained by the Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Hicks. Having talked in this city before, both Mr. and Mrs. Mosley have won their way into the hearts of many young persons here. Those who have not had the opportunity to meet them are especially invited to attend the informal reception tomorrow night, according to the Rev. Mr. Hicks.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosley served in the dangerous Tibet mission fields five years before they returned to this country that Mr. Mosley might complete his college career. They go back for an indefinite length of time under the auspices of the Christian Missionary and Alliance church.

Convicted Once; Gets Hung Jury In Similar Case

James Garrett, Huntington Beach convicted and sentenced to six months in the county jail on a charge of selling liquor, succeeded in getting a "hung jury" late yesterday after a trial on the same charge in Superior Judge E. J. Marks' court, based on a separate alleged offense.

Garrett was tried on the first offense in Superior Judge K. Van Zante's court. Judge Van Zante is on the bench in place of Superior Judge H. G. Ames, who temporarily is in the San Diego county superior court.

An appeal from the conviction has been made through Garrett's attorney, D. G. Wettlin. Deputy District Attorneys S. B. Kaufman and Sam L. Collins appeared for the prosecution in each case.

Export Shipments Of Citrus Fruit Break Re

FOREIGN LANDS GET 365 CARS M. O. D. FRUIT

All records for export shipments of citrus fruits are being broken this season, it is reported today by J. A. Steward, general salesmanager of the Mutual Orange Distributors.

Virtually all of the M. O. D. packing houses in Orange county have been participating in these shipments of valencias, and orders already on hand, with cargo space booked by the M. O. D., indicate that the record breaking shipments will continue throughout the season.

Since the opening of the navel season and so far into the Valencia season, 145,918 boxes of fruit, or 365 carloads, have gone. Orders now on hand in the Redlands headquarters of the Distributors are for an additional 160,000 boxes, or 400 carloads. These orders are being added to each week. The Distributors will have shipped 875 to 900 carloads before the end of the present Valencia season, Steward estimates.

Another new factor in the foreign sales is that of a wider distribution than has ever before been made. In previous years the exporting has been principally to the United Kingdom, but now the California citrus fruits are going also into Norway, Sweden, France, Greece, Germany, Denmark and Finland. One early season shipment of grapefruit went to South America.

As evidence of the increased distribution of M. O. D., fruit abroad, Steward points out that so far this season the shipments on export are about at the total of those for 1926-27, the next previous largest season.

Orange county houses which have had cargoes on various boats this year are Anaheim Co-operative Orange association, Eadington Fruit Company, Fullerton; Garden Grove Mutual Orange Association, Olive Hillside Groves, Orange Mutual Citrus Association, Placentia Co-operative association, Santa Ana-Tustin Mutual Citrus association.

FIRST WOMAN FLYER IN AMERICA RESIDENT OF SANTA ANA

It is a far cry from one of the early air meets at the flying field at Mineola, L. I. to an air meet of today, with its huge crowds and intense interest, and Dr. Bessica Raiche, 305 South Main street, has seen some remarkable developments in aerial navigation since thedays back in 1910, when she gained her laurels as America's first woman pilot. Dr. Raiche has lapsed her flying activities, but her interest in aviation remains unabated.

LIVING ROOM OF THE RAICHE HOME IN MINEOLA, SHOWING THEIR FIRST BIPLANE UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Dr. RAICHE WHEN SHE FLEW HER FIRST BIPLANE MINEOLA, 1910.—

DR. BESSICA RAICHE GIVEN MEDALS AS FIRST WOMAN IN AMERICA TO FLY AIRPLANE

In a feature article printed in the New York Evening World in October, 1927, on the part taken by women in the development of aeronautics, we find this paragraph!

"Preceding these four women martyrs to aviation in learning to fly was Mrs. Bessica Raiche, whose exploits in the air were so successful that on October 13, 1910, the Aeronautical society held a dinner in New York at which Hudson Maxim, the inventor, who was president of the society, presented her with a gold medal studded with diamonds. Records do not reveal what became of Mrs. Raiche."

Could the writer of that article have crossed the continent and come to Santa Ana he might have learned the secret which the record failed to divulge. For Dr. Bessica Raiche, lauded as "America's first woman aviator," has forsaken the clouds and come to earth in this little home city on the western coast, the width of the continent away from where she wrested honors from the air back in 1910 in a Curtis biplane which she and her young husband had built themselves within the very walls of their home!

Retains Interest

No more does the mastery of the air appeal to her, but content to devote her energies to ushering little new souls into the world, she gives all her time to her profession, allowing aviators to solve their own problems of heavier-than-air machines. But her interest in aviation continues, and from the safety of her home, she follows with keenest interest, every new development in that realm where once she reigned as queen.

It was in Mineola, L. I., that Dr. Raiche essayed her first flights, only a few months after a Frenchwoman, Mme. Deniz Moore, had achieved success in Paris as a flyer. The Wright brothers had won fame and success with their biplanes, and Glenn H. Curtiss had developed a smaller and less cumbersome machine which he had equipped with a small pontoon so that he could take off from or land on water as well as land. Their work and exploits were watched with closest interest by Dr. Raiche until she became imbued with the idea of emulating them. Encouraged in every particular by her husband, a young Frenchman, Francois Raiche, to whom she had been married while in Paris completing her training in art, she determined to construct a plane in which she too, might win laurels in this fascinating new life. The young people had a summer home in Mineola where air meets were being held, and it was there that their first plane was built and in it, the young wife won her first silver cup.

Ideas Different

"Our ideas of airplanes were quite different then," she will tell you with a reminiscent smile. "We sacrificed everything to lightness. Bamboo was used wherever possible in the framework and where metal was absolutely necessary, we hollowed it out to do away with weight as much as possible. The wings were covered with a thin China silk and I varnished this myself to make it stronger.

"The present planes with their immense weight, would have been utterly unbelievable to us in that day. So too, would the idea of flight when there was any wind. Our fly-

J. LAUNER, 66, ORANGE COUNTY PIONEER, DIES

J. G. Launer, 66, Orange county pioneer, passed away this morning at 4 o'clock at the Santa Ana Valley hospital after a few weeks' illness. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed but it is planned to hold them some time Saturday. The arrangements are in charge of the McAulay and Suters funeral directors, Fullerton.

Mr. Launer was one of the first settlers of La Habra and his home is one of the first buildings ever built here. The ranch on which he lived for many years is now a part of the business section of the city. Central avenue, the main street of the city once was the central part of the ranch.

When Mr. Launer first located in the valley, there were but two or three other houses here. He was one of the first citrus fruit growers of this vicinity.

Surviving Mr. Launer are his widow and five sons, Albert Launer, Fullerton attorney; Nelson Launer, manager of the La Habra Water company; Irwin Launer, of Alhambra; Richard

S. A. STUDENTS PLAN VISIT TO PLANE CARRIER

The U. S. S. Saratoga, largest airplane carrier in the United States navy and at present stationed at San Pedro, will be visited Saturday afternoon by the Santa Ana high school Engineering club, it was decided at a meeting held last night.

The club banquet held at the end of each school year was scheduled for June 5 at the Santa Ana cafe. Following the precedent set last year, fathers and mothers will be guests at the banquet. Other guests will include John Cranston, city supintendent of schools; D. K. Hammond, principal; Willis M. Clayton, vice-principal; Raymond Adkinson, vice principal, Thomas E. Williams, printing instructor and Rufus Bond, head of the mechanic arts department. An outside speaker, yet to be determined, will be secured to address the club. Four or five student speakers, pictures, and after dinner speeches will be on the program. Charles Greenleaf, president, will be in charge.

At the meeting last night, two new members were voted into the club, Norman Paul and Herbert Jackson are new members and six other boys were selected to apply for membership.

After the business meeting, a short program was enjoyed. Harold Long gave a discussion of ocean landing fields and John Dunlap described the workings of a large newspaper office.

Arrangements Are In Readiness for Fiesta

With all efforts bending toward the success of the annual Spanish Fiesta of the Santa Ana junior college committee chairman and students of the college were today making final preparations for the greatest event of the year which is to color the campus tomorrow with Spanish festivities of the Don spirit of the college.

Maintaining their lead throughout the week of voting, Baxter Geeting and Margaret Cianfoni were declared winners of the Don and Dona contest Wednesday afternoon. One minute before the crack of the gun over 1500 votes were laid down on the table for Geeting raising him to double the number of votes cast for his nearest opponent, Herald Hylton, who was raised to 938 just preceding the close.

Interest was created throughout the afternoon by rumors that certain students were campaigning for votes to raise Romualdo Olivarez as a "dark horse" to the winning position. Geeting, supported by the Junior Lions and Associated Women Students poled 1828 votes, Hylton backed by the Press club took 938, Margaret Cianfoni, sponsored by three French clubs, the Bachelors club and the German club, won with 326 votes over 108 for her nearest opponent, Doris Goff.

Starting at 10 o'clock, students will form a processional in which they will march, singing Spanish songs into the arena erected for the occasion in front of the Y. W. C. A. hut. Following preliminary greeting to the Fiesta, the don and dona will march to the throne where they will be crowned king and queen of the Fiesta by the Rev. Father St. John O'Sullivan of the San Juan Capistrano mission. At 10:50 a. m. Madame Manuela Budrow will sing, after which John Stephen McGroarty, noted Spanish playwright, will deliver the main address of the Fiesta. Concluding the morning program, Miss Faustina Lucero will appear in dance numbers.

At 12:15 o'clock luncheon will be served from the Y. hut and a noon-day dance will follow in the gym of the college. Beginning at 3:30, graduating seniors of the high schools of Orange county are to be entertained in the arena. Included on the program will be a bull fight. Other numbers of the program will be violin selections by Louis Romoff "Keith and Eddie" act, a short Spanish skit, numbers by Carol Laufner's trio, and dances by members of the college dancing classes. Following a tour of the buildings where exhibits are being arranged for the visitors, a dinner will be served on the lawn with the seniors as guests.

Climaxing the day will be the presentation of "Macbeth" under the direction of Ernest Crozier Phillips, for which special scenery patterned after that used by Gordon Craig in New York has been made by students of the shop department of the high school and junior college.

Party Motif Carried Out In Pastel Tints

Lovely pastel tints of the flowers used throughout the E. B. Majors home last night when Miss Alyce Majors entertained for Miss Bonnie Dunham were reflected in the pretty summery frocks worn by the young girls who were guests at the affair.

The same dainty colors were used in effective fashion by the hostess at the supper hour when tall tapers in similar tones were lighted and frilly nut cups and place cards arranged at each place.

A graceful vase was presented Miss Murrell Knox who held high score at bridge and a unique incense burner was won by Mrs. Francis Selway, second. Miss Dunham was consoled with an equally attractive gift.

When the prizes had been awarded, Miss Dunham was presented with many fascinating packages that, opened, revealed many lovely articles for use in the new home that she is to establish soon.

Miss Dunham's marriage to Roy D. Shipp of this city is to take place this month.

Guests of Miss Majors included Miss Evelyn Armour, Miss Virginia Berry, Miss Edith Burkett, Miss Mildred Daley, Miss Doris Goff, Mrs. J. O. County Eastern Star Officers Greeted In This City

Worthy matrons and associate matrons of Orange county Eastern Star chapters, were present 100 per cent at Monday night's session of Santa Ana chapter O. E. S., when Orange county night was observed. At the same time, most of the patrons were present, as well as countless other officers and members until over 300 persons were entertained.

Mrs. Elon Roehm, associate matron of the hostess chapter, had charge of the evening, while Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wright, worthy patron and matron, presided in the ball room at the conclusion of the stated business session, and Mrs. Lillian Dawson and Mrs. T. R. Overton had charge of the card tables. Seventeen tables were required for bridge and 500 players. In the bridge games, Mrs. Fae Short and David Wettlin took first prizes; Mrs. Georgia Wyckoff and George Osterman, second; Mrs. Osterman and R. V. Cox, third. Mrs. Emily Northrup and Alex McAdam scored high in 500; Mrs. Rittenbush and Mr. Barge, second, and Mrs. May Henry and George Mull, third.

Dancing on the third floor was to the delightful strains of the Apaches, an orchestra which won the highest praise from everyone present. A buffet supper was also an enjoyable feature. Decorations were artistic, and a lively color note was introduced by the uniform dress chosen by various groups. The county matrons were gowned alike in white sports frock with orange cape and slippers, while the associate matrons wore clever little print ensembles.

Special guests present included Mrs. Irene Mitchell and Alvin Nowotny, matron and patron of Hermosa chapter, Santa Ana; Mrs. Pearl Kelly and William House, Anaheim chapter; Mrs. Stelle Schultz and Ray Stein, Amatia chapter, Anaheim; Mrs. Hazel Smalley and Hal Hale, Fullerton; Mrs. Elsa Flippen and M. R. Smith, Orange; Mrs. Marian Conrad and Walter Zeigler, Huntington Beach; Mrs. Anne Sisk and J. W. McLauchlin, Buena Park; Mrs. Bessie Day, Garden Grove; Mrs. Carrie Johnson, Yorba Linda; Mrs. Robinson, La Habra. Mrs. Vera Benson, a past matron of the chapter in Holland, Mich., was a guest from that jurisdiction.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Feminine members of the Santa Ana Country club are looking forward to tomorrow afternoon's monthly bridge party that will take place at the clubhouse at 2:15 o'clock. Mrs. Bert Chandler and Mrs. E. K. Dearhart will act as hostesses. Beautiful prizes have been secured for winners in bridge games. Luncheon will be served in the solarium from 12 until 2 o'clock.

TABLE HARMONY

Modern taste demands a sterling silver harmony, a matching of knives and forks and spoons with the serving dishes, pitchers, center decorations, etc. The flat pieces especially must all be of the same pattern. To achieve variety, if that be the object of the discriminating hostess, the practice is growing of having two tables services—of course not to be used together. One of these should be of a rather simple design for informal occasions and one richer in decoration and heavier for the more formal affairs.

Tables were in readiness for bridge and when scores were added at the close of the enjoyable afternoon it was found that Miss Bernice Gohres was high with Miss Mary Bentjen second and Miss Margaet Schaffer low. Each received an attractive gift.

D. of U. V. Will Present Silk Flag

Mrs. Maude Sutton, president of the Sarah A. Rounds tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, is in Oakland as delegate to the department convention now in session there, so Tuesday's meeting of the tent in K. of P. hall was conducted by Miss Minnie Cowan, senior vice-president, who performed her duties graciously.

During the business session one new member was accepted, Mrs. Alma D. Hampton. Calls to the number of 31 were reported, with many flowers sent to ailing members and friends, birthdays of Civil war veterans remembered, and over $20 expended for relief work.

First Steps Taken In Arranging For Dance

With the unqualified success of their last dance giving promise of an enjoyable time at their next, members of the Glee club of the American Legion auxiliary are making plans for another dance to take place May 25 in the Legion hall.

Proceeds from the dance will be added to the fund to send the glee club to the state convention that will be held in San Diego August 19.

An entertaining program which will include numbers by the glee club will be presented during the intermission.

Gledhill's orchestra has been secured to provide the music for the series of waltzes, one steps, and fox trots that have been planned for the occasion.

Tickets for the dance, that will start at 8 o'clock may be procured from any member of the glee club as all are interested in making the dance the biggest auxiliary social event of the year.

Church Congregation Plans Surprise for Pastor's Wife

One of yesterday's pleasant events was a surprise planned by women of the Reformed Presbyterian church, as a compliment to their pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Edgar, 818 South Flower street, who are leaving next week for the east.

Plans for the party were not disclosed until after the prayer meeting hour last night, when those present went in a body to the Edgar home, bearing with them special refreshments and an array of pretty things for Mrs. Edgar to use and enjoy on her journey. Games were played, general singing was enjoyed, and an altogether happy evening spent by hosts and guests alike.

The Rev. Mr. Edgar will go directly to Winona Lake, Ind., for the annual meeting of the Synod to be held there. Mrs. Edgar will accompany him as far as Greeley, Colo., where she will visit her son, Donald, who has spent the past two years there with relatives.

Last night's party was the second one celebrating Mrs. Edgar's travel plans, for on Saturday afternoon the King's Daughters held a colorful garden party at her home, and presented her with their thoughtful contributions towards her happy summer. They also provided ice cream and other refreshments to complete the social feature. This group of young women of the church has been organized little more than a year and has already become one of the strong missionary forces of the Reformed Presbyterian congregation.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

King's Heralds

The King's Herald band of the First Methodist Episcopal church, with Mrs. Ulrich, their leader, gave a delightful birthday party to their mothers and grandmothers at the close of the auxiliary meeting Wednesday afternoon.

McLeod; a song, "A Cheer for Mother," King's Herald band; a toast, "A Greeting to Mothers," by Dorothy Stillwell; response by Mrs. J. W. McCormac; a poem by Isabel McCormac; piano solo by Helen Holmes Robb; "Mother" by Jessie Ferris; reading, "Grandmother's Garden," by Harriet Ulrich; piano duet by Josephine and Juanita Stillwell; recitation, "Our Missionary Mother," Jay Townsley; demonstration, "history of how King's Herald band started," by Mrs. Ulrich, Harriet Ulrich and Florence Ulrich; presentation of May basket to Mrs. Hearn, the president of Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, by Nina June Robertson.

The birthday cake with its 60 candles was presented by Helen Holmes Robb and was part of the delicious refreshments served by the girls.

A GOOD BILL FAILS

A number of bills failed of passage in the Legislature this year which would have been very helpful for the State, others passed that were inconsequential, though many measures much needed have been enacted into the law.

One of the failures of the Legislature was to enact a law providing for the registration of all lobbyists who are operating in the capital city. This legislation is much needed. The mere recognition of the relationship which a man holds to special interests is sufficient to put legislators and others on their guard in respect to his efforts. We are not questioning the right of any organization or financial group to employ representatives to present to legislators every legitimate reason why legislation should either be defeated or succeed, but it should be known who they are and who pays them their salary, so that their arguments may have the weight that they should have, and no more.

This legislation is on the statute books of quite a number of states, and we believe it has proven beneficial on every occasion. It is difficult for men who have the responsibilities of making decisions to dissassociate the arguments from the personalities of the ones who present them. Ideas are not very potent in the abstract, they are powerful only when embodied in a man and invested with a real personality. If the man is interested in legislation from the standpoint of the public good generally, and has devoted much attention to it, he naturally will be given greater weight than one who is simply employed for a salary to present the best arguments available. Frequently those listening are not aware of the weight that should attach to the one or the other man, because they do not know the facts. The compulsion on the lobbyist to file the facts concerning his relationship would then give the degree of weight which ought to attach to his position.

We regret that the Legislature failed to enact this protective and fair legislation. Newspapers are forced to publish ownership and interest which may own bonds or mortgages in it, so that the people may know the influences which are behind them. There has been a great deal of practical bribery or, may we say, prostitution of positions of influence and honor to special interests in recent months, and it has become a very serious menace. Anything which will aid the public in learning the facts ought to be received with gratitude. We are sorry this legislation was not enacted.

E. L. Doheny bought in at public auction the much property of his friend, former Secretary Fall. Mr. Doheny seems to have been the Fall guy in that transaction.

THE ASH-TRAY BILL

A bill has passed the Legislature and is before the Governor for his signature to provide receptacles in every automobile for tobacco users for the receiving of cigarette stubs or other inflammable substances.

As we understand the bill, on every automibile that is passing through forest or brush country, this equipment will be a legal necessity. While we have no objection to equipping our car with such receptacles, we rather raise the question concerning the basic sense of such a law. The man who is carelessly negligent to cause fires by throwing lighted cigarette stubs or tobacco out of the window of an automobile or as he may be stopping beside the road, will not be prevented from so doing by the fact that there is a sardine can or some other receptacle placed in the car somewhere. He will have to get into the habit of placing his cigar or cigarette stubs in such a receptacle during his life before he could be expected to do anything of this character.

The whole idea of compelling people to carry receptacles for cigars and cigarettes who do not smoke and never have smoking in their cars, is ridiculous to say the least. The ones who desire to continue smoking will, of course, follow the law and provide for some such receptacle on their cars, but the others will thoughtlessly violate the law and they are not the ones from whom most damage is done. Some people carry firearms in a car, and some of these days if it will not be provided by law that all cars shall have a holster in which to place the gun shall be placed.

While this will save one fire from starting during the summer and fall, we are for it. We would like to put an ash tray in front of both seats in the car, if by so doing we can consummate legislation that is protecting our forests from fire. Unfortunately, we are afraid it will be found to bring all to inconvenience and adding to the list of statute books will not make the careless negligent considerate and careful, but we hope for the best.

Cities are alarmed at the increase in the number of burglaries. Probably the burglar interest have come in for Cleanup Week.

SOMETHING TO ANTICIPATE

The announcement that John McCormack will appear in a movietone picture of "genuine Irish songs" thrills an Irishman. "But will it be good?" is the next thought. "Will the beauty of the gently rolling terrain and the charm of the picturesque ruins be pictured? Of course, the impression which enthusiastic tourists agree with that the daughters of Ireland is unlike verdure anywhere else probably cannot be conveyed through the screen.

California has proven a versatile state for movie settings. Deserts and mountain ranges have formed a background for settings representing various countries: Egypt, Switzerland, Germany, France, the Orient. But it can't lend itself to an Irish setting with enough to do full justice to Ireland. So the company of directors, cameramen and a supporting cast will sail in August for Ireland, whither John McCormack has already gone to his home in County Mayo, for the filming of the outdoor scenes. The love story of the film is said to be romantic and will include some of the favorite Irish folksongs. The first public showing is set for next February.

AND NOW THE PRISONS

Mr. Hoover is a real president. His talents are evident in every move he makes. The appointment of Sanford Bates, for the last ten years the head of the prison system in Massachusetts, as Superintendent of the Federal prison system is the very best appointment which could have been made. In Massachusetts Mr. Bates has been a courageous and an effective public official. Though thwarted by county ring in putting all his reforms into effect, he has gradually been making the prisons and correctional institutions of Massachusetts models for the whole country. His elevation to the important Federal post is one of the significant moves that has been made in the reform of penal institutions for years. So long as Mr. Hoover is president it is certain that Mr. Bates will have a free hand in improving the Federal prison system.

Among the reforms instituted by Mr. Bates in Massachusetts were the enactment of a wage bill for prisoners, the establishment of a crime prevention bureau in connection with the prison department, and the organization of colonies for male and female delinquents. Criminals have never been handled in a scientific way. Hardened criminals and novices in crime have too often been herded together. The discharge of prisoners after their terms were completed was but feebly followed up with guidance or help. The mentally defective criminal has never been studied with thoroughness. In all these matters Mr. Bates has been pioneering with success. To have such a man take hold of the Federal prison system will mean much for the country as a whole. As the Federal prison system improves and takes on new methods, the States are bound to follow.

That the Federal prisons need an overhauling is a well known fact. We have had the experience of conscientious objectors, men and women of the highest types, and political prisoners of one kind or another given to us in recent years, and it is hard to conceive of conditions such as they have described. When Mrs. Kate O'Hare served for a time in prison for her peace activities during the war, she came out and told the nation just what was going on. All those who heard her were shocked at the conditions she described. These conditions have been improved as a result of her revelations; but much remains to be done, and can be done only by a man like Mr. Bates who has made the handling and the reclamation of criminals a life work. This appointment marks one of the most hopeful beginnings for real prison reform. Mr. Bates is not a theorist or a sentimentalist. He is a humanitarian and scientific penologist. We shall watch his career in the task with greatest interest.

ALL FOR THE HORSE RACES

And now the Kentucky Derby is to be radioed to the whole country, so that we may all feel the thrill of a horse race. That is what many of us have never felt. Knowing how realistic a good announcer can make a baseball game or a street parade, we have reason to believe that the excitement of the Kentucky races will be shared in millions of homes.

With television coming and with the radio reporting every event and every sport, it will be unnecessary, at no distant day, to leave our homes to see the world in action.

Bar Association Rebukes Attorneys For Stand

San Bernardino Sun

The American Bar association has issued a rebuke to those more or less prominent attorneys, chiefly of New York, who have offered to defend free every man who will violate the prohibition law with the Jones act penalties. The executive committee of the association has refused the requests of five organizations to join in such a mevement. The committeemen express the opinion that all statutes on the books should be enforced, and that it is unbecoming for a lawyer to advocate non-enforcement of any laws.

It is indeed unbecoming for lawyers to advocate non-enforcement, but it is far worse than unbecoming to urge violation and offer free defense to violators. Such conduct has in it the very spirit of treason and rebellion. It is no wonder that we have a spirit of anarchy abroad in the United States, when lawyers of prominence, semi-official members of the courts, openly advocate and offer to abet violation of the law. Theoretically a lawyer admitted to practice is an officer of the court, charged in common with the judges with the duty of seeing that justice is done.

Perhaps not until we revise our code of legal ethics and no longer hold in good standing at the bar the lawyer who devotes his genius and learning to an effort to prevent justice instead of promoting it may we hope to see the right attitude towards the law.

New Austrian Cabinet

Oakland Tribune

The new Steeruwitz Government in Austria moves into office on vain hopes. It won support and place with its espousal of the plan to unite Austria and Germany, though every informed politician in the land knows the scheme is opposed in all those places, outside the border, which must first be consulted.

Dr. Steeruwitz, the new premier, is a member of the Christian Socialist party. He is for the union for religious and economic reasons. Austria has to export outside of its boundaries, 70 per cent of its industrial production while it is importing two-thirds of its foodstuffs, and believes that a union with Germany would be mutually beneficial. At the same time it knows that any move toward such a combination would bring protests from all the surrounding states.

According to the dispatches few Austrians consider good the Doctor's chances for remaining long in office. He has religious, political and industrial opponents who, at any time, may combine against him.

A Neighbor Advises

Riverside Daily Press

A Santa Ana service club is urging the voting of bonds for a municipal auditorium for that city; and the organization suggests that such a building could be erected for $100,000 that would have a seating capacity of 5000. Riverside's auditorium with a seating capacity of half that, cost over $300,000, and Pasadena is talking of $1,500,000 as the proper sum to spend for an auditorium with a seating capacity of 5000 or 6000.. Santa Ana people are likely to find, on investigation, that $100,000 will not get them very far towards an adequate and satisfactory municipal auditorium.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WE'RE ONLY ON OUR WAY

Man is still subject to the changes of evolution—a scientist.

When we gaze at the ape in the zoo
With his countenance grinning or grim
We wonder if it can be true
That we all have sprung from him.
"Can a creature," we mutter, "with such a face
Possess any blood connection
With a marvelous, masterful, splendid race
Which has reached the peak of perfection?"

When we look at a cave man's skull
We say in a pitying tone:
"He must have been stupid and dull
With a head that was mostly bone.
Can it be that a man with a brow so low
And such sinister osseous features
Could have featured, though several eons ago,
Us wonderful glorious creatures?"

We think of the ancient Hun
Who was strong for war and crime
And we say, "How the sands have run
Since this person's Stygian time.
How vastly better are we in brain,
Consider our lofty station
And how we have managed at last to gain
Our marvelous civilization."

But in millions of years from now
The men we have sired will say
"How dreadfully low in the brow
How clumsily formed were they,"
(Referring to us) and they'll probably add:
"Life must have been dull and futile
And existence terribly, terribly sad
For a people so utterly brutal."

Can Federal Reserve System Influence Prices?

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

The Federal Reserve System always has the power to influence the price-level.

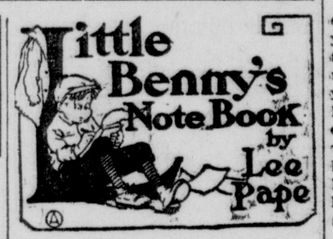

By the price-level we mean the average of the prices of all the things we buy and sell—corn and cattle, cabs and cabbages, and all the rest. We mean the cost of living at any one time, compared with the cost of living at some other time. Time has nothing to do with the relative prices of things at any one time.

The Federal Reserve System exerts its influence on the price-level chiefly by means of its interest rates and its purchase and sale of securities. But it also influences the price-level by its published statements, for they affect both the eagerness of banks to lend money and the eagerness of men to borrow money. This affects the volume of money in use and therefore affects prices.

There never has been a time, and there never will be a time, when the steps taken by the Federal Reserve System have nothing to do with price movements. Failure to act in itself affects prices. The Reserve Board and the Reserve Banks either promote stability or promote instabiliy. From that conclusion there is no escape.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

LOYALTY AND LABELS

Mismanaged virtues may become dangerous vices.

Loyalty is a case in point.

Loyalty is looked upon as the cement that holds institutions together.

The loyalty of its staff is among the major assets of a great business.

The loyalty of its followers is a duty imposed by great religious faiths.

And patriotism purports to be made up of loyalty entire.

But, for all this, this virtue of loyalty is in constant danger of degenerating into a vice.

The weak spot in a philosophy of loyalty is that most of our loyalties are linked with labels which symbolize to us the thing we love and are loyal to.

And labels are of the devil.

The burning passions of patriotism and religion that stand out in history have usually functioned in terms of two labels—a label of something that was loved and a label of something that was hated.

There is but one eternally defensible loyalty, and that is loyalty to truth, but the common sort of loyalty is likely to become political partisanship, religious intolerance, and fanatical patriotism.

If we would keep loyalty a virtue, we must beware of the innumerable labels that set us apart from our fellows.

The greatest spirits of all time have been singularly indifferent to the superficial forms of the social, political, and religious organization of their generations.

The greatest issues lie beneath the surface of the innumerable labels we use to describe the various races, the various nations, the various parties, and the various religions of mankind.

Labels always limit the thing they attempt to define; and so much of our loyalty consists in exaggerated devotion to a race or a religion for some one good thing about it, or exaggerated hatred of a race or a religion for some one bad thing about it.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

LOOKING

When a child is naughty the very best way to control him is to catch and hold his eye with your own. But—and this is a very big BUT what is in your eye as you hold him?

The only thing that ought to be expressed there is affection. Fill your soul with love for this mistaken child and pour that love out upon him through your eyes, as you hold him fixed there. Never hold him with cold eyes, threatening eyes. Fear is no weapon with which to fight error. Fear begets fear and the chain is endless. But love begets love and love begets beauty and the end is spiritual perfection.

"Why I never have to speak, I just look at him," said a proud teacher.

But that look was poisonous with dislike, threats, scorn, meaness. That will strike fear to the soul of a child and may, for the time, keep him from troubling you. But no child is ever subjected to fear, to threats, to personal dislike without feeling a deep resentment and that feeling is bound to express itself sooner or later. Nothing good was ever accomplished by it. It is a mean advantage to take of a child.

The threatening look will make the child bide his time. The evil he was set to do was not even touched. It will rise again and in double strength because of its suppression in resentment. But the evil spirit that is cast out by the warmth of love, never returns. It is gone for good. The child may make a mistake, and that right soon, but it was not the mistake born of hatred and resentment and cold intellect. It was the mistake of growing childhood and is easily corrected,—by love.

When a child is very trying and you have to check him be careful. What thought have you? Know that whatever thought there is within you is shining out in your eyes. It cannot be hidden. It will ring out in the tone of your voice it will shine through your words. It will select the very words for your tongue, selecting those that give edge to your hidden thought, and always, always, it will look out of your eyes. It cannot be hidden from the child. He will know.

So it isn't any good to clot your impatience, your dislike, yo bitterness with a smile,—a toot smile, the children call it. T child knows the quality of yo thought and that is what hears, and sees, and feels in y as you look at him.

But if you push out the wro attitude and take on the rig one, if you know with all you heart that there is good, muc good in this child and that lov will bring it out and straighte it four fold, if you keep on lovin the good in him, honestly loving i —he will respond like the flowe to sunshine.

Look loving.

PANAMA CANAL BONDS

Eighteen years ago today the United States treasury invited bids for $50,000,000 worth of bonds to complete construction of the Panama Canal.

The total cost of this gigantic work was approximately $355,000,000, but $113,000,000 of this was written off to national defense, since it represented the cost of military features which would not have been necessary to make the canal merely commercially valuable to the nation.

The canal was opened for navigation Aug. 15, 1914. It is a little more than 50 land miles long; the minimum depth of the channel is 41 feet and in parts of Gatun lake is about 80 feet. A five-mile-wide strip of land flanking the canal was purchased by the United States from Panama for $10,000,000, plus an annual rental of $250,000.

Since the opening of the canal, tolls have totaled almost $30,000,000. About three times as much cargo moves from the Pacific to the Atlantic as in the opposite direction. Sugar from Hawaii and oil from California account for this.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY COMMU

Farm Center Told Of Citrus Culture In

DR. WAYNICK IN MOISTURE TALK IN YORBA LINDA

YORBA LINDA, May 16.—In an address on the fundamentals of citrus culture, in which the problems of irrigation and fertilization were stressed, Dr. D. D. Waynick, manager of the Association laboratory at Anaheim, presented many pertinent facts and figures to members of the Yorba Linda farm center at their regular meeting in the Woman's clubhouse last evening.

Interesting experiments covering different treatments of neighboring groves were told, and small, frequent applications of fertilizer have been found to be much more effective than larger amounts applied less frequently, he said. He pointed out the necessity for controlled moisture throughout the year and stated that as a general rule too little water was given during the late summer months as it was less readily absorbed by the soil.

"Each orchard has its individual conditions and problems which must be carefully studied and met if it is to be operated economically and profitably," he said.

J. Ritter, of Cypress, one of the directors of the farm bureau, was present and gave a detailed account of the 1621-mile trip covering nine southern counties which the traveling conference, with representatives from 40 counties of the state, made recently. The trip ended in Orange county and mention was made of the impression gained by the visitors of both the county and the farm center men.

Norman Blaney, secretary of the county farm bureau, was another guest and gave a report of the last meeting of the farm bureau. He also announced the county flood control bond election to be held June 25, and made a strong plea for the support of the project. He told of the increase in property valuations during the past 40 years and stated that success of the bond issue is vital to all the county.

It was decided to have speakers on the flood control problem at the next meeting of the farm center June 11.

George Kellogg invited the farm center to enter an exhibit at the Orange county fair, and Curtis Morris was named chairman of a committee to arrange for an exhibit.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

What Acids Do to Eggs

If you are not familiar with the action of acids on eggs when the combination is cooking you are apt to have curdled salad dressings, thin watery custards and souffles.

The soft custard mixture in cooked salad dressings should be removed from the heat THE VERY INSTANT the mixture begins to thicken.

Hot acids (vinegar, tomato or lemon juice) coagulate egg and soon digestion of the egg sets in and the egg separates, or becomes thin.

To correct the fault another egg must be stirred into the hot mixture and slightly cooked, or flour must be added to thicken and it then becomes a sauce rather than the delicate custard mixture it started out to be.

Custards in which vinegar is an ingredient require one-third more egg to thicken than do other types of custard.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Poached Salmon with Mock Hollandaise Sauce

2-pound fresh salmon or
1-2 of a small salmon
1 1-2 cups thick white sauce
1-4 cup whipping cream
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Salt and pepper to taste

There are two ways of cooking this salmon and two kinds you may buy. At this season of the year "baby salmon" is sold at a very low price. They look, and are, delicious, providing you cook them correctly. Do not attempt to bake them, they are tougher than sole leather because they are not fat when so small. You may either poach them by dropping into boiling water, the kettle set back where the water will barely simmer for 30 minutes, or, you can wrap them in parchment paper and steam for the same length of time. I prefer the latter way myself—flavor is finer.

While the salmon is steaming away we will proceed with the making of the sauce: Of course you know how to make an ordinary cream sauce so we will just have it ready in a double boiler, piping hot. Add to it half the butter and the thick cream and beat vigorously until the butter is melted and the sauce smooth and very light. Now—

Slightly lower the heat so that the sauce will be BELOW the boiling point, cut the remaining butter in bits and put into the sauce, start beating again and as you proceed, add the lemon juice very slowly, beating constantly so that there is no chance of curdling.

As soon as this is done, take the sauce away from the fire but keep hot over the water. Fold in the minced parsley and add salt and pepper just before serving with the salmon.

This mock hollandaise is fine with fresh asparagus: if you like it a richer yellow color add a couple of egg yolks, well beaten.

There are six portions in two pounds of salmon. With the sauce the calorie total is 2800. Salmon is rich in fats as well as protein, has some iodine, and possibly some of the D vitamine.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Thrills and shivers! Shivers and thrills!

Such is the movie fare at the West Coast-Walker theater where a notable cast, headed by H. B. Warner, is presenting "Stark Mad," a melodramatic tale of the Caracas jungle and its mysteries.

An expedition into the jungle in search of a lost son of the leader, explains the presence in such a dangerous spot of Americans including pretty Jacqueline Logan as the young man's fiancee, Claude Gillingwater as the father, Henry B. Walthall as the captain of the yacht, Louise Fazenda as the secretary, and Warner as the celebrity who appears and aids in solving the mystery. There are many other prominent screen players in the production, and their adventures in an ancient Mayan temple are hair-raising indeed.

A pretty romance runs through the story, as the scientist who appears out of the jungle to guide the search, supplants the lost youth in the affections of his sweetheart. There are many laughs as well—for how could a film story boast the presence of Louise Fazenda in its cast, and not have laughs? The answer to that question is—it couldn't! John Miljan adds to the amusing features also, in his character as a pseudo-scientist.

A huge ape plays a prominent part as the mystery develops, and in addition there is the American youth who has been crazed by his terrible experiences and who is played convincingly by Andre Beranger.

F. and M. Varieties add interest to the bill with some entertaining vaudeville.

BROADWAY

Probably no picture of recent date has attracted more flattering attention than "Coquette," the first all-talking picture starring Mary Pickford, and which is this week's attraction at the Yost Broadway theater.

"Coquette" is proving to be the most electrifying dramatic success of the season, for in addition to its beautiful story running the gamut of the emotions, is the fact that Miss Pickford was the first screen star of outstanding importance to take a definite plunge into the all-talking picture realm.

Mary Pickford has always been a pioneer in the motion picture field. She turned from the stage to the screen in the latter's precarious beginnings, when one-reel melodrama were the limit of its achievement. What she accomplished is of course, screen history. And there has never been anyone able to wrest the queen's crown from her golden curls. In the last two or three years there has been much discussion as to who might be her successor in the affections of the public, as popular screen dramas seemed to turn from the type of plays she presented. And then Miss Pickford achieved the seeming impossible. She changed her character—and retained the crown.

In "Coquette" she is the very picture of present day youth—charming, gay and truly coquettish. And the picture tells a story that is worthy of its star, with John Mack Brown and Matt Moore taking prominent roles.

WEST END

The decline and fall of the Hope Chest is just one of many indications that our modern life is slowly but surely strangling Romance, according to pretty Dorothy Gulliver, 1928 Wampas Baby star, who enacts the leading feminine role opposite George Lewis in Universal's "Honeymoon Flats," the hilarious newlywed comedy-drama which is now showing on the screen of the West End theater.

Miss Gulliver makes a plea for the return of the Hope Chest into every family where there are daughters, not because the Hope Chest of itself is important but because it is an indication of an appreciation of Romance.

"Our mothers all had Hope Chests," stated Miss Gulliver, "and marriage in their generation was something sacred. A girl would rather have been an old maid than to marry a man she wasn't sure of. There were few hap-hazard weddings and infinitely fewer divorces.

"In 'Honeymoon Flats,' Mr. Lewis and I play the roles of one of these modern young couples, hasty to wed and with the slightest quarrel bringing threats of divorce. Of course, we finally discover how much we love each other."

FIRST WOMAN TO FLY PLANE GIVEN MEDALS

ing seasons were confined to spring and summer, and then we never dreamed of taking off if there was the slightest breeze. The flag at the flying field had to droop idly down the flagpole before we ever ventured off the ground.

"There were no controls on the engine, and when we were ready to take off, three or four men held the plane, while a mechanic turned the engine—and I sat there mentally praying it would leave the ground all right. For you must remember that in those days, dozens of planes were built which never left the ground at all."

The biplane in which Dr. Raiche had her most successful flights was the third one built. This was to be her own exclusively, so after designing it, she made the patterns for its castings, and superintended every detail of the construction that she did not do herself. It was equipped with a 40-horse power motor and had a speed of about 35 miles an hour.

The plane was completed on September 15, 1910, and on the following day the young aviator made her first flight in it. By October she made several circuits of the flying field at Mineola, and had achieved an altitude of 30 feet, according to magazines of the day. This was considered an extraordinary record, and straightway she was proposed for membership in the Aeronautical society.

Her feats in the air won the attention of the flying world, and at the annual meet in Mineola that October, Dr. Raiche was presented with a handsome medal inscribed, "To the First Woman Aviator of America, Bessica Raiche. Presented by her Admiring Friends of the Aeronautical Society." The medal is suspended from a brooch representing a pair of wings, studded with diamonds, rubies and sapphires, and was presented to the intrepid airwoman by none other than Hudson Maxim, world-famous inventor who was president of the Aeronautical society.

It is one of Dr. Raich's chief treasures today, but equally dear to her is the handsome bronze medallion, a replica of the gold medal presented by the government to Orville and Wilbur Wright. This medal bears the relief portraits of the two famous brothers with the words "Resolution of Congress, March 4, 1909. To Orville and Wilbur Wright in recognition and appreciation of their ability, courage and success in navigating the air." On the reverse there is the representation of an exquisitely modelled figure flying high above the suggested outline of the earth, bearing a torch in her right hand, and inscribed above is the quotation "Shall mount upward with wings as eagles."

There were but 18 of these bronze medals cast, and Dr. Raiche is the only woman to whom one was presented.

Despite the perils of flying at that time, Dr. Raiche had but one accident and that was when, skimming low above the ground, she reached an unexpected depression, and not having momentum enough to clear it, bumped the front control into the hole. The plane was damaged but the aviator was unhurt, and considered the accident a valuable lesson to fly at a higher altitude.

Does she still long to fly, this quiet little woman with the merry smile and friendly, unassuming manner? Perhaps so, perhaps not. She refuses to say. She very evidently obeys the Biblical injunction to do what her hand findest to do, and at present the task is making a home for her young daughter, Catherine. All of her time is given to her profession and her home. And if sometimes she longs for the excitement of those earlier days, it might be many things other the flying to which her fancy might turn. For she had many varied interests. Born in Wisconsin of an inventor father and a "Colonial Dame" mother, this vivacious daughter of the west rode, swam, drove an automobile, was proficient in music and languages, and in early womanhood won fame as a painter of miniatures. Indeed it was to perfect herself in this art that she went to Paris, but Dan Cupid works in the French capitol just as he does here in the United States, and she came back to her own country with added respect for the old masters, but with deeper interest for a new husband.

The study of medicine also claimed her attention, and she took her training at Tufts College of Medicine, Boston, (where she was a member of Alpha Delta sorority) later taking special work in obstetrics at the Children's hospital on Staten island. So it was natural for her to turn her attention to the field of medicine when thrown upon her own resources. She is a member of the Woman's National and also the International Medical society, and here in California(where she came in 1912) she has been connected with the Anaheim clinic, coming to Santa Ana to locate a little over a year ago. She is a member of the Orange County Medical association, and of the Anaheim Business and Professional Women's club, but plans to transfer her membership in the latter organization to the Santa Ana club.

Dr. Raiche and her daughter and young niece make their home at 305 South Main street. Among the former's treasured mementoes of her flying days are many pictures of those early flyers who have made aeronautical history, lived their brief lives and gone to their tragic but glorious deaths. There are letters and clippings, all pertaining to that subject which was once her chief interest. One of the letters is from Harry Houdini, telling of his plans to travel through Great Britain by biplane, in fulfilling his engagements as the master magician. Beneath his signature, Houdini had added, "The First Successful Aviation in Australia. Not much money in the title, but 'twas a lot of glory."

State Crews Testing Auto Lights Nightly

tory each time they go out.

Tests are conducted with the aid of a light screen, which is marked with lines showing just where the center beam should fall and the limits of light rays from headlights that are properly adjusted. Just as soon as the driver of the car places his machine in position before the screen, the adjustment of the lights is immediately determined to be O. K. or incorrect.

If the lights do not comply with the regulations as carried in the motor vehicle act, the driver is given a light citation, which is not an arrest, but simply a notice on the part of the state traffic officers that lights are out of adjustment, and that they must be checked up and properly focused within the next 24 hours at a certified adjusting station. Failure to do this, however, will cause the driver not complying to be cited to appear in court, where he is liable to fine.

Captain Meehan pointed out that the tests are conducted solely in the interests of public safety, and do not in any way result in any revenue for the traffic department or the state, except of course, through the fines that may be levied on persons who refuse to have the lights properly adjusted in the required time limit.

The state law requires tests of headlights on all motor vehicles to be made at least every six months, and it is advisable to keep the light certificates in the car, according to members of the state traffic force.

The crews making the tests have reported that by far the great majority of the lights examined are out of adjustment, the percentage running as high as 75 many nights.

"Cause for the lights getting out of adjustment are many," Captain Meehan said. "For example, it is almost impossible to install a new globe and get it in the proper alignment. Consequently the lights should be tested against a screen every time a new one is put in Then unusually rough roads or deep ruts will almost invariably cause some deviation from proper adjustment. Another common cause is bumps received in getting in or out of parallel parking spaces.

"These are just a few of the most common methods of causing lights to get out of adjustment and should be taken into consideration by the motoring public. It is for their own safety as well as every one traveling the road, so we ask the co-operation of all motorists in curtailing the glaring headlight menace."

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, May 16.—(UP)—Wheat futures fell practically lower in a dull sesion here, as farm relief delay, weaker cables and more favorable crop news all tended to discourage buying of the grain. Clear, drying weather over the corn belt caused trading in deferred months to take a bearish trend late. Oats were but a shade lower.

At the close wheat was ¼ to ¾c lower, corn was c lower to ¼c higher and oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower. Provisions were unchanged to 5 points lower.

Trading in wheat was mixed during a greater part of the sesion. Receipts were 8 cars.

Commission houses brought a good deal of July corn early, but orders evidently carried instructions to sell the September, and as pressure showed in that month, Chicago Bears contributed to puting all deliveries weak before midsesion. Cash prices were steady to ½c higher. Receipts were 13 cars.

Oats moved in a very narrow range most of the session for, although demand was only moderate, there was no important pressure on the market. Cash prices were unchanged. Receipts were 66 cars.

MRS. EDWARDS GIVEN OFFICE IN D.A.V. GROUP

To Mrs. Rose Edwards, wife of Harry Edwards, 930 Halladay street, senior vice commander of the state Disabled American Veterans, has come the honor of being elected treasurer of the first state department of the auxiliary of Disabled American Veterans of the World War, to be formed in the United States, and members of Jack Fisher chapter No. 23, and auxiliary, D. A. V., are much elated at the honor accorded the Santa Ana orders.

Organization of the state department was effected at the state convention of the D. A. V., held in San Bernardino May 9 to 11, which was attended by many veterans and auxiliary members from this city. Mrs. Hilda Riehl, newly installed commander of the Santa Ana auxiliary, headed the delegation from this city, and was chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee. Other auxiliary members accompanying her were Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Emma Kelly, Mrs. Pauline Cleary, Mrs. Ella Pickard and Mrs. Edith Redford.

Mrs. Carrie Doran, of San Bernardino, was elected to the commandership of the new state department; Mrs. Ella Taylor, of Sacramento, senior vice commander; Mrs. Lynch, of San Diego, junior vice commander, and Mrs. Edwards, treasurer.

Delegates and visitors were shown every possible courtesy during their stay in the Gate City and on the opening night of the convention were complimented at a banquet in the California hotel. Friday was distinguished by an enjoyable bridge luncheon, presented by the San Bernardino American Legion auxiliary, and a 5 o'clock parade through the city's principal streets, in which all patriotic organizations joined out of courtesy to the visitors. That night the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce, presented a ball, which was one of the most enjoyable social features of the conference. Saturday, the final day of the convention, was given over to automobile trips to various points of interest in and near the convention city.

The next convention date awaited with much interest by auxiliary members here is the national, to be held in Detroit, Mich., June 23 to 28, inclusive. Appointment of Mrs. Rose Edwards as delegate carries with it a special interest because of the formation of the new state department and it is felt that she will have a very valuable message to give other auxiliary workers, representing, as she will, the new department as well as being official delegate of the Santa Ana chapter.

HONORED AT D. A. V. MEET

To Mrs. Rose Edwards (upper picture), prominent member of the Santa Ana auxiliary of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, was accorded the honor of being elected treasurer of the new state department of the Disabled American Veterans' auxiliary. Mrs. Hilda Riehl (lower) and Mrs. Edwards were prominent in the state convention of D. A. V. and auxiliaries, held last week in San Bernardino. Mrs. Riehl recently installed as commander of the Santa Ana auxiliary and as such represented that organization at the convention, where she was chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee.

Two Taxi Drivers Draw Fines Here

Two men were fined in city court yesterday afternoon on charges of failure to appear.

The defendants, Ray Underwood, 22, tari driver, who lives on route two, Orange, and W. T. Smith, 19, also a taxi driver, of 312 North Main street, had been given tickets for driving without chauffeur's licenses, but failed to appear in court within the prescribed time limit.

Fines of $10 each were assessed by Judge Talbott on the failure to appear charges. The cases on the original charges of operating motor vehicles without the proper license were continued by the judge.

DRIVER BRUISED

ANAHEIM, May 16.—Mrs. Ollie Minor, 1503 West First street, received minor cuts and bruises yesterday in an automobile accident at the corner of Palm avenue and La Palma street, Anaheim, when the car she was driving collided with another car. Mrs. Minor was alone.

SAFE PLANES

Paradoxical as it seems, bumps, rough landings, and air pockets are becoming much safer for airplanes. The pilot's enclosure, which is the most important from the standpoint of protection from broken glass in the case of a spill, must now, in many standard planes, have panes fitted with triplex non-shatterable glass. For the cabins in the larger passenger planes, this safety glass is becoming widely used as devotees of the air realize that the chief dangers of aviation may reside in what should be minor accidents.

POLL OPPOSES USE OF TAINTED TESTIMONIALS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16—The National Better Business bureau has conducted a poll among national advertisers and advertising agencies regarding the use of purchased testimonials. These indorsements are not only used in printed advertisements but in occasional instances are read over the air. The advertising agencies arrange those parts of the program having to do with the reading of purchased testimonials, and also place the contract for time on the air, for which they are paid a commission by the stations that receive the contract.

The poll gave the following results:

	Against	For
National advertisers	700	41
Advertising agencies....	149	14
Totals	849	55

Practice Widespread

An analysis by the bureau showed that purchased testimonials were widely used through the scope of advertising and were not limited to one advertiser or to a single industry.

"The promptness of reply and the large percentage of reutrns from our questionnaire," says the bureau, "very definitely demonstrated the seriousness with which the abuse of purchased testimonials was criticized.

"A summary shows an overwhelming percentage who disapprove. The opinion as expressed is added to by trade and newspaper comment, supplemented by cartoons and wise cracks from professional jesters.

"Add to that the sleeve-laughing that is going on by many well-paid testifiers who, from their own experience, must believe that the advertising business is dependent upon deception for success and supplies these insincere testifiers with a lucrative 'racket.'"

Food Men Attack Practice

The national food protective committee recently petitioned the federal radio commission to revoke the licenses of 38 stations on the National Broadcasting company's chain that broadcast the "Lucky Strike" program each Saturday night, one ground being that tainted testimonials" were read over the air, the testifiers being heroes and heroines in the eyes of youth, and their testimonials being calculated to make young boys and girls become cigaret addicts.

The petition also said that lists of names of famous persons are available, with the price of a testimonial after each name, and that all an advertiser has to do is to pay the price and obtain a testimonial for any product. It was hinted Lucky Strike cigaret manufacturers simply bought indorsements in this way.

AMPLE COAST TALENT

There is plenty of broadcasting talent on the Pacific Coast, according to Frank A. Arnold of the NBC. Just returned from a western tour, he says that such talent has created an intense interest in broadcasting. Fifty per cent of the families in California, Oregon and Washington own receivers, he says.

RADIO WILL HOLD THEM

Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, the delectable team of musical comedy, say they have sung their swan song as troupers. But they'll still entertain the public by radio. They have made a big hit on the air in their series of appearances on programs over the Columbia system. Their last appearance for this season was May 13. But they'll come back!

RADIO SYSTEMS TO BROADCAST ZEP'S ARRIVAL

When the Graf Zeppelin, world's largest airship, pokes its nose across the American shoreline on or about Sunday, highlights of its flight will be given the radio audience through stations associated with both the National and Columbia Broadcasting companies. Details of the NBC plans for broadcasting the arrival of the big dirigible were announced today.

A corps of NBC operatives, headed by Phillips Carlin, program executive and announcer, will go to the naval base at Lakehurst, N. J., on May 16, to complete plans for telling the radio audience of the zeppelin's arrival. According to advance information, this arrival probably will be Sunday.

Present plans call for a description of the ship's arrival to be broadcast from the roof of the big hangar at Lakehurst in which the German visitor will be housed during its stay at the New Jersey base. Other equipment will be installed inside the hangar for putting full details of happenings there on the air. Notables aboard will, in all probability, relate briefly the experiences encountered during the journey across the Atlantic.

Preparations also have been made to describe the expected flight over New York City, it was announced.

The NBC arrangements were made in conjunction with Lt. George Watson, U. S. N., attached to Lakehurst naval station.

Stations to broadcast the event will include KFI, Los Angeles.

BEFORE THE MIKE

The British Broadcasting company has announced that in the near future actors appearing in its programs will be nameless. Imagine that state of affairs in the United States! Why, even the announcers here must be known to the fans.

Mack

A jump from the machinist's trade to director - announcer of WOC, Davenport, Ia., shows what kind of a fellow Johnny Mack is. A ukulele got him his start on the stage and, according to him, his first radio appearance was six years ago as the first Santa Claus to go on the air. Before going to WOC he was connected with WTAM and WJAY, Cleveland, and WCAE, Pittsburgh, where he originated "Uncle Kaybee."

The Tuesday Musical club at Pittsburgh broadcasts its program on Monday afternoons from KDKA. This daylight savings time does gum up the work a bit.

Simmons

"Barking" for a radio showboat troupe made this gentleman famous. He is Hank Simmons, who conducts the showboat program of the Columbia system. The silk topper is part of the props Hank employs to put his offerings over. Hank's program, in his own words, is "a thrillin' mellerdrama of the days when the hero always shot the villuns, the mortgage was paid and all ended happily."

A new radio advertiser promises "a surprise program, unusual, different and excellent." Ho, hum! Just another orchestra.

WON'T REGISTER "RADIO"

The attempts of the Radio Manufacturers association to thwart a Brazilian's attempt to copyright the term "radio," thus making that country practically worthless as an import market for radio, have been successful. The Brazilian Department of Commerce assures the RMA that no such permission has been granted.

20 ARTISTS AND FOUR BANDS ON VICTOR'S HOUR

NEW YORK, May 16.—With a gala program, an all star cast of 20 musical headliners and four great orchestras, the Victor Talking Machine company will present what is perhaps the most pretentious microphone entertainment ever put on the air, on Friday night, May 24. The broadcast will utilize the complete coast to coast facilities of the National Broadcasting company and four of its largest New York stuudios will be required to accommodate the exceptional array of talent secured for the occasion.

The list of performers is made up exclusively of Victor artists, whose records as well as their public appearances have made their names household words throughout the world. In fact, the announcement of those who will participate in this hour and a half of rare entertainment reads like a musical "Who's Who."

Both Rosario Bourdon and Nathaniel Shilkret will wield batons throughout the evening. Musical selections and accompaniments will be played by the Victor Concert orchestra, Victor Dance orchestra, Victor Salon orchestra and the Victor Symphony orchestra. Seventeen specially chosen features will include operatic, classic, popular and old time numbers, each of which will reflect the popularity of the artists and the orchestras that will render them.

Important Announcement

Milton Cross, who recently received the gold medal for good microphone diction from the Academy of Arts and Letters, will be master of ceremonies and will introduce the Victor celebrities. During the evening it is said there will also be made an announcement of exceptional importance in connection with modern radio development.

Arrangements for this nation-wide broadcast are now being completed by officials of the Victor Talking Machine company and the National Broadcasting company and it is estimated that the Victor entertainment will be heard by more than 40,000,000 people from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the gulf..

Distinguished Artists

In addition to the popular maestros, Rosario Bourdon and Nathanial Shilkret, the big all-star Victor cast includes Gene Austin, Franklyn Baur, Jesse Crawford, Richard Crooks and Frank Crummit. Mischa Elman's marvelous technique will be at its best as he plays "Valse Triste" and Huida Lashanska's pure lyric soprano will delight her audience with "Sweetest Story." Then will come the popular Highhatters, and Johnny Marvin will be heard in a typical vocal and ukelele number. George Olsen has chosen "Dream Mother" as his selection and Jack Smith's famous tenor will whisper "I Kiss Your Hand, Madame." Rudy Vallee will set his listeners' feet shuffling with "Deep Night." Laurence Tibbett of Metropolitan Opera company fame will have the baritone solo "Toreador Song" and charming Alleen Stanley is to sing, "I'll Never Ask for More."

Station KOA, Denver, will receive the program beginning 7:30, mountain standard Time, and on the Pacific coast the Victor audience will hear the broad cast from 6:30 to 8 p. m., over KPO, San Francisco; KFI, Los Angeles; KGW, Portland; KOMO, Seattle, and KHQ, Spokane.

MYSTERY PLAY KGO OFFERING TONIGHT

Mystery will again be astir in the air with the presentation of "The Rattle of Death" by the KGO Players between 9:30 and 10 o'clock tonight.

"The Rattle of Death" is the fourth episode of "The Unseen Hand" which the KGO Players are giving over the General Electric station every Thursday at the same time.

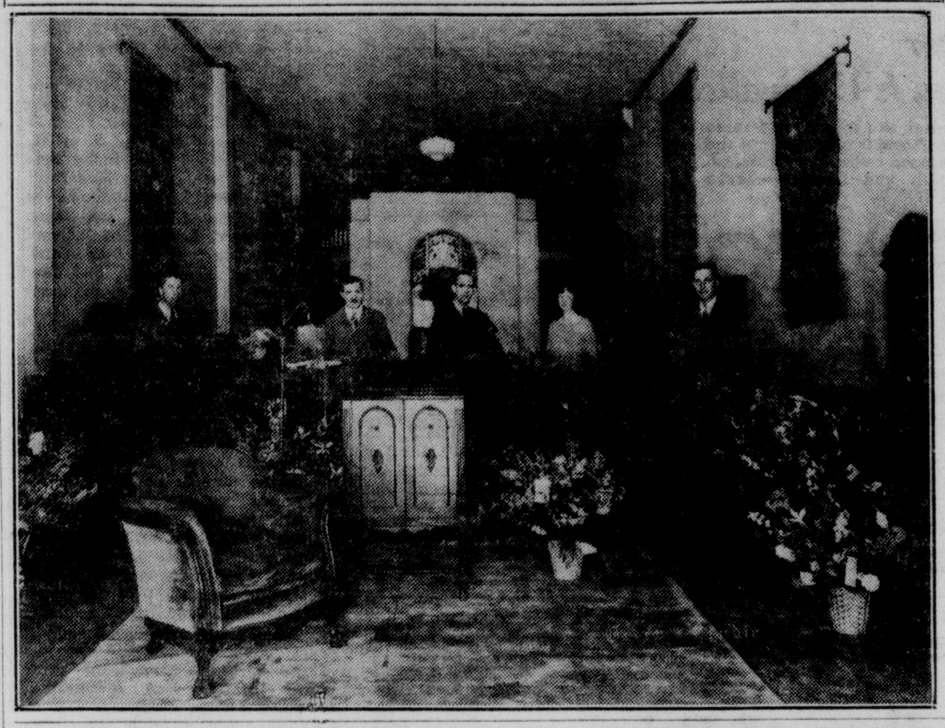

Tom Hutchinson, the author of this mystery serial, wrote it especially for Wilda Wilson Church, pioneer director of the KGO Players.

The house which furnishes the scene of action in this chapter play is not a product of the author's imagination. Seeking a suitable locale for his story, Hutchinson recalled a mansion on Long Island that had not been lived in for years. It was built by a man who had suddenly become rich. Uncanny things were supposed to have happened in it right from the very start. Finally the owner fled from the place in horror; doors were locked, windows barred. No one has entered it since.

It is estimated that there are approximately 16,000 radio amateurs operating in the United States at present.

NEW HOME OF LIGGET RADIO SHOP

Below is pictured the beautiful interior of the new Liggett Radio Salon, opened Saturday in the recently completed Santora building, at 213 North Broadway. The interior of the Liggett shop, as can be seen from the picture, is attractively and comfortably furnished. Members of the store staff shown in the picture are, from left to right: S. L. Vincent, sales; Alfred A. Rush, technician; C. H. Lane, sales; Mrs. Ruby E. Liggett, proprietress, and C. E. Johnson, sales.

PERFECTION OF ANNOUNCING IS SOUGHT BY NBC

NEW YORK CITY, May 16.—The National Broadcasting company will expand its efforts to perfect the art of announcing.

George Engles, vice president, director of the program department, said that experts in various specialized subjects will be called in to assist in this effort. Authorities on art, music, science and the like will supplement the general knowledge of announcers, so that absolute accuracy in the use and pronunciation of technical terms may be insured.

"The requirements of the company in engaging its announcers are extremely stringent," said Engles. "All of the announcers have more than the average amount of information on many subjects covered by broadcasting. The company demands a high standard of education and culture, as well as the ability to speak correctly.

Perfection Necessary

"However, with the spotlight of public attention focused so strongly upon radio announcers, particularly by the American Academy of Arts and Letters, we realize that absolute perfection is necessary. Radio announcers are now expected to set the standard of public usage. If they are to be entirely worthy of public confidence they must never make a mistake.

"We realize that no one person can be infallible on every subject. It takes an authority on music to know the exact use and pronunciation of all terms relating to music. The same is true in the case of art and science. Even so, authorities themselves sometimes friend of President Hoover and helped manage the Hoover campaign in New York.

President Hoover by his two appointments to the board showed a preference for men with engineering training. Saltzman was chief of the signal corps, the chief signal officer of the army, a military engineering post.

Starbuck, born in New York city, attended Drisler and Horace Mann schools and got his master's degree in engineering at Columbia university.

In 1908, Starbuck began the practice of mechanical engineering in New York, going later to the Middle West, where he continued in that work until December, 1917, when he enlisted in the army as First Lieutenant in the Ordnance department. He was in France from May, 1918, to March, 1919.

From 1919 to 1921 Starbuck was connected with the firm of Starbuck and Clapp, New York, and later with several manufacturing companies. In 1921 he began the study of patent law and was admitted to the federal, New York city and New York state bars in 1925. Since that time he has been engaged in patent law work, specializing in radio.

He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Royal Society of Mechanical Engineers, London, and the American Legion.

KEJK To Present School Glee Club Tomorrow Night

Representing the Gardner Street school, 40 children, between the ages of 10 and 12 years, will broadcast a half hour's program starting at 9 o'clock next Friday night, over KEJK. These children form the school glee club and have won a large following by the splendid programs they have developed under the direction of Katherine Stone, head of the Los Angeles city schools' music department.

Their appearance over KEJK marks the first of a series of musical programs to be broadcast from this section by children representing the various Los Angeles schools and is a part of a general program originated by the Beverly Hills station, in an effort to bring to parents a better conception of the musical accomplishments of school children.

SAXOPHONE IS DEFENDED BY NOTED PIANIST

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—The mournful saxophone, much-abused musical instrument which has borne the brunt of public sarcasm and jokes since it first started the practice of keeping the next-door neighbors awake, has a champion in Dimitri Tiomkin, pianist-composer, who broadcasts from WOR here.

"The saxophone," he says, "is reminiscent of the lugbrious bag pipes of the tramping minstrels and troubadors of the past. It has echoes of the sobbing songs of urbanites. Frankly, it is a city instrument.

"Today the saxophone stands like a weaker brother who has a chance to say a word at last. It is a phonetic mongrel, a characteristic voice of the transition period—of our industrial era, one who weeps about vanishing time.

Dimitri Tiomkin

"There is something primitive about it at times. At others it is almost sophisticated in connection with the phonetic role in modern music—a sort of mixture of African jungle and Park Avenue, as it were."

"The saxophone adds a melancholy note to the dynamic tempo of a semi-recitative, semi-epic tone picture of our composition today. Our modern music is an echo of our geometrical existence, dissonantic and syncopated, like our environment. It reflects the abnormalities of our cacophonic streets and steam-heated houses."

Radio has done much to popularize the saxophone, Tiomkin adds. The instrument is now about 95 years old. It was first introduced in Paris by Charles J. Sax and his son, Adolph. Its early use, and in fact up to the time of modern jazz, was practically confined to bands.

But now, according to Tiomkin, radio sends out this instrument's crooning rhythm over the air creating a strange subconscious emotion in the souls of music lovers.

COLORFUL NUMBERS ON KHJ'S PROGRAM

"Themes and Variations" by Corelli-Kreisler will be featured by Howard Griffin, violinist, during the 7 to 7:30 program tonight on KHJ. The orchestra, under the direction of Charles Shepard, will play Rinssky-Korsakov's descriptive composition "Flight of the Bumble Bee," and other colorful numbers. A mixed program comes from 7:30 to 8 o'clock with the orchestra and soloists featured.

Selections from "The Show Boat" and the "Red Mill" will be featured by the KHJ singers and orchestra during the period from 8 to 9 o'clock. Dr. Carl Omeron will sing "Barcarolle" from "The Chimes of Normandy."

Glenn Dolberg, manager of KHJ, reports that the 9 to 10 o'clock period for tonight will be full of surprises, but refuses to divulge the secret. It is a regular Thursday night feature, which started last week, and he insists that the public will find it most interesting.

PROGRAM PIRACY IS PROHIBITED BY BILL

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Representative Darrow (Republican), of Philadelphia, introduced a bill to amend the radio act to forbid interception and re-transmission of radio programs without authority of the originating station. The bill, which also prohibits sending of false distress signals, was referred to the committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

The full text of the amendment:

Section 28. No person, firm, company, or corporation within the jurisdiction of the United States shall knowingly utter or transmit or cause to be uttered or transmitted any false or fraudulent signal of distress or communication relating thereto; nor shall any such person, firm, company, or corporation intercept in the process of transmission and rebroadcast or in any manner retransmit by wire or wireless or by and means record, for the purpose of reproduction, the program, or any part thereof, of another station without the express authority of the originating station."

disagree. There must be someone to have the deciding word. Such experts will be engaged to act in an advisory capacity to the announcers."

Engles said that the company has recently inaugurated an intensive training course in speech for its announcers. Each week the entire staff of announcers meets with Miss Vida Sutton for advanced coaching in diction and the use of the voice. Miss Sutton is director of the speech department at the Theater Guild's School for the Young Actor.

Special Exercises

"The course," said Engles, "is designed to do away with localisms, individual mannerisms and the metallic quality often existing in American speech. In this connection announcers will be given the opportunity to hear how their voices come over the air—to see just how the quality is recorded by the microphone and loudspeaker. They are given special exercises for resonance, articulation and breath control. Bodily exercises supplement the vocal exercises since coordination of body and voice are so interrelated."

Milton J. Cross, NBC announcer, recently won the Academy's diction medal.

SEAL BEACH, May 16.—Members of circle three of the Community church were entertained in the cabin home of Miss Elsie McClelland Tuesday in Silverado canyon. Four boys have finished the Pathfinder and Trailblazer degrees and were inducted into the guide degree at the Sunday school hour Sunday and awarded the gold Pioneer pins. They were Kimber Hood, Junior Morris, Jay Goade and Arleigh Bullock.

An old-fashioned box social will be held in the Community auditorium this evening. A stunt program is replete with surprises and the evening promises to be an interesting one.

The local girls won the high score in the ball game held Saturday with the Wololo Camp fire girls of Long Beach as their opponents. The score stood 27 to 24.

Girls and boys of Seal Beach who won ribbons were Audrey Armstrong, Marcella Glenn, Wilma Simpson, Goldie Pope, Lawrence Howard, Robert Burns, Douglas Lawhead, Richard Law, Winston Scott, Wilbur Hussey and Aldon Garrett.

The increase in the number of scholarships so that all the finalists will be so rewarded covers this idea and the larger cash awards are to provide insurance against material needs while devoting time to the study the scholarships will provide.

CARRIE JACOBS BOND WILL AID KENT AUDITION

Carrie Jacobs Bond, famous composer of "The End of a Perfect Day" and many other songs to be heard wherever music is sung, announces she will devote some of her time this summer to helping find young vocalists in Southern California who would enter the third national radio audition under the auspices of the Atwater Kent foundation. The distinguished musician and musical poetess has accepted the post of honorary chairman of the state audition committee for Southern California, where she now makes her home in an idyllic spot near Grossmont.

MRS CARRIE JACOBS BOND
Honorary Chairman for Southern California
NATIONAL RADIO AUDITION

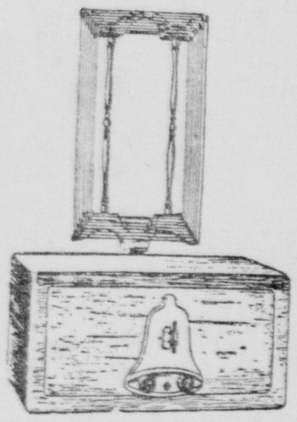

Mrs. Bond has been very much interested in the work of the Atwater Kent foundation since it made its first offer to educate and reward young singers in 1927 and was active in the 1927 and the 1928 foundation auditions in California. She has been an ardent believer in starting young people with ability and ambition on the road to fame in musical careers. The revision of the national radio awards for the 10 finalists to be selected by local, state and geographical district auditions which will this year provide musical scholarships for all of the finalists and provide $25,000 in cash benefits instead of $17,500, is in line with the views of Mrs. Bond who has always held that every incentive should be given talented young singers to study.

According to a report from 3-L at Melbourne, Australia, Munic and Berlin, Germany and Barcelona, Spain, are rebroadcastin that station's programs.

Selecting a Radio

Persuasion in purchase superinduced by technical descriptions and far-reaching claims of superiority ofttimes result in dissatisfaction the very moment the merchandise is delivered.

This is particularly true as regards a Radio.

In sponsoring the BOSCH RADIO, we do so with the sincere belief that it offers dollar for dollar value that is honest and consistent with the quality of its reception and its beauty and craftsmanship in building.

We will welcome a visit from you to our Show Rooms where courteous attention will be given to your every question, but where decision will be left entirely to your best judgment. We particularly recommend the No. 102A Model illustrated, as it has been especially designed for Southern California trade, and as is usually the case, was first offered to Santa Ana by this store.

Husband Retired Cursing, Woke Up Cursing, Charge

Kicking three clocks to pieces in as many years, bringing a lizard and a centipede into the house to aggravate his wife, breaking furniture and throwing dishes about were among the alleged acts of Robert B. Campbell, complained of today by Mattie A. Campbell, who brought suit for divorce against her husband.

The complaint stated that Campbell had been irritable and cranky ever since their marriage, in 1912, that he always woke up with a curse on his lips and that his last words at night were a curse on his wife.

EL MODENA

The Friends church will have a service Wednesday evening with a pot luck supper at the Roosevelt school dining room, after which the church officers will be installed. Rev. Harley Moore of East Whittier, will be the speaker of the evening.

Miss Catherine Wood from U. S. C. college spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wood.

The El Modena Woman's Christian Temperance union met with Mrs. Oscar Stanfield Wednesday afternoon. Mothers and White Ribbon Recruits were honored. Twenty-one new names were added to the Recruit roll which includes children up to six years of age. An interesting feature of the program was the presentation of the kindergarten band from the school, directed by Miss Ida McNair. They played several numbers. One little tot played a number of harmonica selections and quotations honoring mothers were read by those present. Mrs. Haines read a paper, "Mother's Vision."

Other numbers on the program were a violin duet by Ruby Armstrong and Elaine Jost, accompanied by Mrs. Armstrong; Donilda Dollard sang, playing her own accompaniment; Henrietta and Hazel Settle gave a vocal duet, "Mother o' Mine," accompanied by Mrs. Reece; readings were given by Martha and Eula Stanfield and Mrs. Doris Gray; Mrs. Clara Jones tied the white ribbon on the wrist of each child giving each one and the mother a message. Mrs. Mary Moody led the devotionals, reading the scripture lesson for Mother's day. Mrs. Clara Hodson was chairman of the committee arranging the program. Light refreshments were served during the social hour.

Among those present were Mrs. Mary Moody, Mrs. Jost and daughter, Elaine; Mrs. Hazel Felt and son, David; Mrs. Annie Barnett and children, Charles and Margaret Lois; Mrs. Etta Adams, Mrs. Clara Hodson, Mrs. Dora Carlton, Mrs. Alva Jones and son, Robert; Mrs. Henrietta Reep, Grandma Stone, Mrs. Daisy Hadley, Mrs. Mamie Settle, Mrs. Clara Haines and children, Helen and Donald; Mrs. Armstrong and children, Julia, Helen and Gladys; Mrs. Mary Lentz, Mrs. Beatrice Dollard and daughters, Donilda and Elaine; Mrs. Pearl Reece, Mrs. Clara Jones, Henrietta and Hazel Settle, Eva Adams, Frances Barnett, Ruby and Ethel Armstrong, Mrs. Doris Gray and daughter, Dorothy, Alma, Martha and Eula, and Bradford Stanfield and the hostess, Mrs. Olive Stanfield.

SETS ALTITUDE RECORD

Lieutenant A. Soucek, upper right, has seen more of this earth at one time than any other man. For you see him here being congratulated by David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aviation, upon establishing a new world's altitude record. The plane, before which they are standing, is a Wright Apache powered with a Wasp motor and a supercharger. Just before his take-off, the navy flyer is shown lower left, wearing the goggles, oxygen helmet and heavy clothes to protect him at an altitude of nearly eight miles. Ice formed on the goggles and he had to remove them at the top of his climb, when the temperature was 76 below zero. At the right he is shown nursing a bleeding nose, caused by the great height, after having been helped from the plane.

HOOKS AND SLIDES
Henry L. Farrell

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Marty Goldman, a young New York fighter, was making his first important fight in the Garden . . . Just as he was leaving the dressing room he was approached by a kind person who said—"Your mother just died in the hospital" . . . The kid was knocked out and learned later that his mother was not dead . . . Abe Attell is his manager . . . Paulino crashed into society recently as a guest at a fashionable charity ball in New York . . . And on the list of guests he was mentioned as Miss Paulino Uzcudun . . . The tickets for the Yale-Georgia football game in Georgia are being distributed . . . And they say they're all gone . . . The ball players say that Ben Paschal is one of the best jockeys in the league . . . And that he is almost as good as Mouthy Durocher . . .They say there is some slight dissension on the Washington ball club . . . And that Goslin thinks the younger fellows ought to hit as good as he does.

YANKS FIRST AND ALWAYS

Tad, the late cartoonist, was the original Yankee rooter. New York always had been and was, until recent years, strictly a Giant town and the Yankees were looked upon as intruders.

But Tad strung along from the start with the Yankees when they were known as the Highlanders and when they were a very poor ball club. He was one of the few regulars in the stands and his support meant a lot to the players.

When Colonels Ruppert and Huston bought the Yankees his loyalty became almost a mania and when Babe Ruth came along to the Yankees and started hitting all those home runs he went through a daily period of hysterics.

CRAZY ABOUT BABE

He was what you might say absolutely mad about the Babe and he used to roar from the press box like a school boy. He didn't hesitate to shoot his biting sarcasm at the umpires in a loud voice and it is quite certain that if the critical voice had belonged to anyone but Tad the umpires would have bounced him out of the ball park.

Some of the younger sport writers, who had taken on an air of sophistication and bored indifference in a few year's time, used to wonder that Tad, after all his years in the business, could maintain the spirit of a rooter. They say the same thing now about Grant Rice. The fact that they kept the heart of a rooter in them through all the years may explain why they were successes.

WRITERS NOT IMMUNE

It was mentioned above that Tad would have been bounced from the press box by the umpires if he had not been the famous Tad. You might be of the opinion that an umpire wouldn't give the gate to a writer as well as to a player.

The late Bill Phelon, who for years covered the Cincinnati Reds, was fired out of the Polo Grounds one afternoon by Bill Klem. Phelon was perhaps the wildest rooter at all times and he had a voice like a drum.

The press box at the Polo Grounds is located on the playing

FRAZIER WHIPS WILLIAMS

S. A. To Play Anaheim Friday

OLD RIVALS OF NIGHT BALL IN FIRST MEETING

Santa Ana and Anaheim, the cities that have dominated the night baseball situation in Orange county for three seasons and the same ones that raced neck and neck down the home stretch in a thrilling finish last year, will test their 1929 strength for the first time tomorrow night.

The clubs are scheduled to embrace in a regular Orange County Night league game in the Santa Ana Bowl. The combat is expected to tax the capacity of the sporty incandescent home which will accommodate more than 2000 persons. The Stars and the Colonists packed the place twice last summer and ought to again.

Santa Ana is popularly supposed to be 25 per cent stronger than it was in 1928. The pitching staff unquestionably better with two instead of one first date submariners and the infield steadier offensively and defensively with the return of two veterans, the Stars should give any kind of opposition trouble.

Colonists Weaker?

On the other hand, the Colonists are generally regarded as a trifle weaker and no more of a danger in the county derby than Olive, Garden Grove or Huntington Beach. The BIG threat, of course, is Long Beach, but recently admitted to the district race.

Anaheim, however, always has been a hard row for Santa Ana to hoe. Billy Knott manages somehow to collect a club powerful enough to make the locals work for everything they get. The three games between the old rivals last season were masterpieces, and the teams were so closely matched two years ago they had to play four times before Santa Ana finally proved itself the fittest.

Officials of the Santa Ana entry were silent today on their probable pitching selection but it was taken almost for granted that "Zuse" Ochoa, himself a former Anaheimer, would do the work. The Colonists never have batted against Ochoa and may not like his fast ball. No team Santa Ana has faced this year showed any love for the swift of the swarthy right hander.

Three Good Hurlers

Anaheim has three moundsmen ready to use against the Southern California titleholders. Kenny Walker, the lanky preacher's son, was regarded as Anaheim's first string hurler last year, and probably will get the job although Bushman and Osborn, the latter with Fullerton in 1928, have worked well in practice contests.

Despite the significance of the tussle, the Commission of the Santa Ana Night Baseball association will not attempt to reserve seats and they will be filled on the first come-first served policy. The admission will be a dime.

Another Friday joust that will be eyed with keen interest locally is that scheduled at Huntington

$100,000 Is Daro's Offer To Mat King

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—Lou Daro, Los Angeles promoter, announced today that he had wired Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight champion, an offer of $100,000 to meet "Strangler" Lewis at Wrigley field here in July.

Daro informed Sonnenberg that Billy Sandow already had signed for Lewis.

The former college football player beat the "strangler" in Boston a few months ago.

ORANGE COUNTY TEAM CALLED CORONADO NOW

The flittering butterfly of the California State baseball league—first ready to call Ventura a home, then trying Orange county for a time and almost ready to alight in Pomona—came to rest in San Diego yesterday, to remain at least one week. Now it is called Coronado, and will give San Diego continuous ball.

One more jump may be the lot of the "butterfly," but that, if made, will be the final one, according to Orville McPherson, league president, who ordered the team taken to San Diego as a base until suitable arrangements are made to provide a permanent home.

The Coronado club, nee Ventura, Orange county and Pomona, opened a series in San Diego yesterday with San Bernardino.

Decision to take the club to San Diego was made by McPherson on receipt of word from D. W. Campbell, league secretary, that proper arrangements could not be made to place the team in Pomona. The inland city had offered a home when attendance at the Orange county fair grounds was not sufficient to warrant the club remaining there.

Chet Thomas, veteran catcher, who joined the "Travelers" here and later took over the management, has whipped the team into much better condition, and last week at San Bernardino gave the home team a stiff fight for every game. The Padres will arrive along with the Coronado club today ready for action.

Several offers have been received by the league for the team, McPherson said. All are being considered and it is expected that a permanent home will be found for the club within the next week or 10 days. No move will be made, however, McPherson said, until suitable arrangements for the team have first been made.

The wonderings of the club have been many, but throughout all the players themselves have gotten into every game to make a fight of it though handicapped by a late start.

H. K. Elder, Los Angeles attorney, who held the franchise here, forfeited his ownership, according to baseball law, by not appearing at a meeting of league directors last week and the league itself has taken over the direction of the team.

FLICKERS GAIN IN VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE

In the Y. M. C. A. Volleyball league, Or. Frank Ashmore's Flickers last evening took two games from Warren Fletcher's Jays, giving Fletcher's team one of the series, and pulling the Flickers up to a place as third in the present team standings which follow:

	Won	Last
Robins (Raitt)	8	1
Crows (K. Taylor)	5	1
Flickers (Ashmore)	4	2
Jays (Fletcher)	5	4
Sparrows (H. W. Smith)	4	5
Irioles (Baker)	1	5

Salo Slices Lead Of Peter Gavuzzi

ANSON, Tex., May 16.—It was Pete Gavuzzi, England, versus John Salo, Passaic, N. J., today as the Pyle transcontinental runners left here for Roby.

After running together and finishing in a tie for four days, Salo started out yesterday to overtake the elapsed time lead of the bearded Italian. He ran the 39.7 miles from Albany to Anson in 5:08:05 cutting 19 minutes off the leading time.

GRID STAR KILLED

Edwin Hill, below, star halfback of the New York university football team, engaged in a playful struggle with a friendly policeman, Joseph Green, stationed near the university school. While wrestling for the officer's club, his revolver somehow was discharged, instantly killing the athlete. Green was suspended pending an investigation.

SHIRES, YOUNG ROOKIE, SLUGS LEADER OF SOX

CHICAGO, May 16.—Charles Arthur Shires, "bad boy rookie" of the Chicago White Sox, was reported today enroute to his home at Italy, Tex., while his erstwhile manager, Lena Blackburne, nursed a badly blackened eye and lacerated right ear.

Incensed at an indefinite suspension and $100 fine placed on him earlier in the day, the rookie attacked Blackburne in the Sox clubhouse after yesterday's game.

Swinging rights and lefts viciously, Shires knocked Blackburne to the floor, when he was stopped by other players, and the youngster escorted from the park by a policeman.

The fight was a culmination of a series of incidents in which the battling Texan has figured since he won and lost the team captaincy during spring training as well as the regular first baseman's job.

Charles Arthur appeared for batting practice with a brilliant red hat and Blackburne told him brusquely to "stop the burlesqueing."

Heated words were exchanged and Shires drew the fine and suspension. He watched the game from a box seat, and then made his way to the clubhouse, shouting as he entered.

"You've driven me from baseball, damn you, Take that—."

Huntington Beach To See Swimmers

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 16.—A swimming exhibition featuring several famous water experts will be staged at the Huntington Beach plunge tonight. The program has been arranged by Miss Frances Blewett, swimming instructor at the plunge.

Dodie Blewett, former Pacific Coast champion in the 50-yard swim and also one time champion in the mile high swim at Lake Arrowhead, will compete with her former adversary, Oliver Hatch, also former Pacific Coast champion in the short swim.

Miss Collett In Finals Of British Golf

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 16.—Glenna Collett, American women's golf champion, advanced to the finals of the British Women's championship tournament here today by defeating Miss Doris Park 4 and 3.

She will meet Miss Joyce Wethered, former British champion, in the final round tomorrow. The match will be over the 36-hole route. Miss Collett, if victorious, will be the first American ever to win the title.

GOTHAM HEARS OF RICH PURSE OFFER TO JACK

NEW YORK, May 16. — Jack Dempsey has no definite intention of returning to the ring, he told the United Press today, in answer to reports that he had received an offer of $800,000 to fight at Tijuana and another of $500,000 for a bout in Chicago.

"I have received no offer attractive enough to induce me to return to the ring," he said. "I refused an offer of $250,000 yesterday for a fight in Montreal."

At Montreal Dempsey declared that he would demand $1,000,000 for another bout.

"I might consider an offer for a bout in the fall," he said, "providing, of course, that the purse was large enough and suitable opponent was named. At present there is no outstanding heavyweight."

The New York Evening World today, in a copyrighted story by Ed Van Every, said an offer of $800,000 had been made by Jim Coffroth, owner of the Tijuana race track for a bout Thanksgiving day, November 28. The bout, according to the story, would virtually determine the undisputed heavyweight championship, vacated by Gene Tunney last fall.

It would also lead to the dissolving of the partnership Dempsey now has with Humbert J. Fugazy, and Ed Cole—a combination made for the promotion of fights and for which Dempsey now is acting as matchmaker, according to the Evening World.

The offices of Fugazy and Cole reported no knowledge of the reported offer from Coffroth, or of the report that Paddy Harmon, Chicago promoter, has offered the former champion $500,000 to meet Otto Von Porat in that city.

Little credence was placed in either report, however. It was pointed out that the "offers" Dempsey has received in the last few weeks, if totaled, would mount into the millions.

The belief that Dempsey was legally bound into the promotion combination for the duration of his contract with Fugazy and Cole also was expressed.

Pladner, Francis Go To Paris Draw

PARIS, May 16.—Emile (Spider) Pladner, European flyweight champion, and Kid Francis, Italian-American bantamweight, fought a 12-round draw at catchweights in the Velodrome D'Hiver here last night. Pladner weighed 115, Francis 117.

BASEBALL WORLD IS BAFFLED BY POOR SHOWING OF GIANTS

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 16. — The strange case of the New York Giants is baffling the baseball world.

Most of the National league managers and leading players agree that the Giants have one of the best clubs in the league, but they are in seventh place today, having won only seven out of eighteen games.

Hunting for the flaw is like hunting for a needle in a haystack. The Giants have had no serious misfortunes to handicap them.

John McGraw's absence from the team because of sinus trouble may have played its part, but the Giants have been without McGraw before and still been able to win games. McGraw has two capable assistants in Ray Schalk and Bert Niehoff, smart, veteran players who have themselves piloted ball clubs.

McGraw refuses to believe that the Giants are not pennant contenders and he sticks to the theory that they will throw off their slump any day now.

"I'd be foolish to say that the Giants don't have me worried" he said. "I don't know what's wrong with them. If I did I would correct it. This team reminds me somehow of my 1916 tea mwhich lost 11 out of its first 13 games but won seventeen straight games and was in second place June 1. Later we set a record which has never been equalled by winning 26 straight games. When we do get going, we are going to be as hard to stop as we were to start."

VETERAN GIVES WALLY BATTLE: RIVERS VICTOR

By RINGSIDER

Wally Frazier was over the hump today. He had his thirteenth straight victory at the Orange County Athletic club. And last night he whipped a good and a game light heavyweight to get it—Frank Williams, who is slower on the trigger than he used to be but not yet consignable to the junkyard of pugilism.

Frazier won—on points—because he hit faster and straighter. The aggressor throughout, Williams made Frazier respect him in those six rounds. It was not exactly a respect founded on fear because in the majority of the exchanges Frazier was not first to break ground but Wally WAS cautious. He saw no crying need of chancing contact with a right hand that three years ago lulled Pat Lester, Ernie Owens, Neil Clisby and other promising heavyweights into a total state of disinterest.

Neither did Frazier outclass his big blond opponent as Frazier has most of his 12 other victims here. Williams always had a chance to win. Ringsider tabbed Wally for a second, third, fourth and sixth rounds and called the first and the fifth even. But even in those winning moments, Frazier's margin was not wide. One great rally might have wiped it all out.

Williams on Floor

Frazier's best round was the third in which he staggered Williams with a left hook to the jaw and, following it rapidly, floored Frank with a right to the side of the body, Williams being off balance at the time. He was unhurt and was on his feet before Referee Frank Holborow had even begun to toll the seconds.

Through nine-tenths of the battle, Williams slowly paced around the ring after Frazier, both alert and alive to possible dangers, and when Williams started a punch Frazier would wing one also and Wally's were snappier, connecting first and breaking the force of those aimed at him. Invariably, Frazier followed up with a short left, then a fast right. These did not injure his opponent but they all counted on the scoresheet. It was a bloodless encounter for the most part although Frazier sliced Frank's lip in the third and from it a thin, jagged line of blood coursed until the end.

"Pop" Barrett, Williams' manager, thought the decision was unjust and demanded a rematch over a 10-round route. He said his charge did all the leading and half of the hitting and was entitled to the decision.

Rivers Finishes Fast

Jimmie Rivers, Fullerton's temperamental young welterweight, tore a page from the book of many smart fighters and got a six-round decision over Hiram Gill in the semi-windup. Rivers was behind on points going into the last heat but he beat Gill all over the ring in the last three minutes and caught the referee's eye. More than one defeated boxer has made up a lot of losing distance with a fast finish. It is seldom the ruse doesn't impress an official.

Gill connected often but most of his punches were wild and wasted although he deserved no worse than a draw. It was a real and a close bout. Both boys, ordinarily given to covering up, came out of their shell, threw caution to the winds and swapped blows readily. Rivers' finish was a beautiful effort. His judgment and timing were perfect and he did not miss when he swung. It was the best showing he ever made at the O. C. A. C.

Bert Sampson decisively outpointed the chunky southpaw, Manuel Victoria, in the six-round feature, winning every post but the first one which was about even. Sampson's blows were heavier and cleaner. Victoria was in a bad way several times but managed to remain upright.

Terry Thrashes Jack Clark

Just a shadow of his old self, venerable Jack Clark took a terrible beating from Young Terry, Whittier middleweight, who looked like a world's champion against such slovenly opposition. Terry pounded Clark's middle like it was a bass drum. The veteran's bulging stomach became redder and redder after each attack and he,

One Look from Movie Star Drops Herr Schmeling To His Knees

PRAGUE, May 16.—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight pugilist who aspires to the world championship and is coming back to America for that purpose is, according to reports from Prague, in the knocked-out class. He was brought down to his knees and didn't want to get up. But it was no pair of hefty masculine Czech fists that did the work for Max, but the beautiful eyes and lovely face of a Czech girl—Miss Jarmila Vackova.

No announcement of an engagement to be married has been made, but all Prague expects it soon—as soon as Miss Vackova goes back to America, where she expects to see the famous German prize fighter.

She's U. S. Citizen

The pretty 19-year-old girl is an American citizen, having been naturalized, and must go back soon or lose her prized citizenship papers. She has played in some small parts in the movies at Hollywood and is just finishing a Czechish film at Prague in which she has had the star part.

Jarmila loves to talk about the movies, about the countries she has visited, and about her work in America and here. But she is a lot more reticent when it comes to discussing affairs of the heart. She speaks of Schmeling as a "dear chap" and a "very good friend," but so far has refused to admit that the attraction presages wedding bells.

They had the tying run on base, Braden getting a pass, and going down on Smith's sacrifice fly but Suddaby grounded out to end the game.

THAT'S A HARSH NAME

On this particular afternoon Klem was having a lot of trouble. At least the Cincinnati players thought he was missing them and Phelon roared that he was robbing them. He pestered Klem for five innings and finally committed the unforgiveable offense. He roared at Klem:

"You big cat-fish."

Klem stopped the game and walked back to the screen in front of the press box.

"Mr. Phelon," he said. "You aren't going to see any more of this ball game. Out of the park for you and I don't care where you go."

"Well, you're a cat-fish anyway if I never get back in this park," Bill said. And picking up his notes he departed.

also his stomach, was lucky to be in there at the finish.

Tony Moreno was too aggressive for Soldier Louis Medina, a new one in Jack Walker's Santa Ana stable, but Tony knew he was in a fight. Medina, a slim, nice-looking little chap, was fully as clever as Moreno but not as rugged.

Bobby Bridges won the curtain-raiser from "Wild Man" Macias. It was just the kind of a bout you would expect.

There were two unusual things about the card which virtually filled the house. There wasn't a single substitution and there wasn't a single knockout. The customers got their full 30 rounds of milling.

APPLETON TO LEAD OXY

Hagen Defeated In British Golf

MOORTOWN, Eng., May 16.—Only two Americans, Leo Diegel and Joe Turneso, remained in competition today at the end of the second round of the Yorkshire Evening News professional golf tournament.

Diegel survived the second round by showing some of the greatest golf of the tournament to eliminate his fellow countryman, Ed Dudley, 5 and 4. He shot a 30 for the first nine holes, breaking the course record.

Turneso also eliminated a fellow American, Horton Smith, by a 3 and 2 margin to reach the quarter-final round.

George Duncan scored the only victory of the day for England over an American, stopping Walter Hagen, 1 up, in one of the greatest matches ever seen here. Hagen scored a 60 for the 18 holes but Duncan countered with a 68, winning with his final putt.

In the quarter final round tomorrow Diegel will meet C. A. Whitcombe and Turnesa will face J. J. Taylor. The other matches oppose Duncan and W. H. Davies and Archie Compston and Herbert Jolly.

Schmeling Love Affair Revealed

America before they sailed back to Europe?

Together In Berlin

"Oh no, on the Deutschland on the way back to Europe. Herr Schmeling and Conrad Veidt were also on the ship. Herr Schmeling pleased me very much; he is such a dear good fellow. We had a nice time on the boat. Before I went on to Prague, I stopped off a week at Berlin. Herr Schmeling acted as my guide and then promised to visit me in Prague.

"You were naturally pleased that he kept his word?" The little Miss Jarmila blushed and said very softly:

"Oh yes, very much! I had to show him Prague. We went everywhere. Then he wanted to see the surrounding territory and we went out in an auto and lost our way. The road seemed to come to a dead end. We got out and asked some fellows where the sketch of a road led to. They impudently answered: 'To Hell' . . . 'Oh,' we replied, 'we want to go in the opposite direction.' We finally found our way to Karlsbad. We got back late that afternoon and dined at a famous restaurant. Herr Schmeling likes Czech cooking."

"And in what language did you speak with him?"

"Oh, he speaks English, but he is teaching me German."

"And now a very personal question, Fraulein . . . "

But she interrupted laughingly: "Oh, I know what you wish to ask, is it not? . . . we . . . we are very good friends . . . He is such a dear chap this . . . Herr Schmeling."

Thereupon she became once more charmingly rosy.

LEWIS THROWS DAVISCOURT IN LAPS OF PRESS

LOS ANGELES, May 16. — Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, the heavyweight wrestler who recently became a bridegroom, descended on Dick Daviscourt, a fellow heavyweight wrestler, in all his fury here last night and Daviscourt was considerably manhandled.

Lewis and Daviscourt had been straining first this way and then that way for quite a period of time, when the "Strangler" suddenly picked up Daviscourt and tossed him into the front rows where a number of newspaper men had gathered to witness the exhibition of mat endeavor.

Daviscourt landed head first between two rows of seats and it was some time before his seconds were able to extricate him.

Daviscourt seemed rather out of sorts when he returned to his foeman and grappling was resumed vigorously.

Approximately 1 hour 8 minutes and 52 seconds after the start of the match Lewis caught Daviscourt with a body slam and bounced him on the canvas with such force that the Olympic seemed to resound in every corner.

Nick Lutz beat Bill Beth in the semi-final after 53 minutes of fast wrestling, the winner used a backward body slam.

can 75% of the citrus growers be wrong

in their choice of a marketing agency?

THIRTY-SIX years ago—in 1893—when the cooperative marketing principle was first introduced to the citrus industry, only one-fourth of the total small California crop was handled cooperatively.

When the California Fruit Growers Exchange was getting its start, growers said, "Show me. Before I join, you will have to prove that cooperation will increase my net returns."

Ten years later, more than half the citrus growers of the state were marketing through the Exchange.

Today, 75 per cent of the growers market through the Exchange.

And the membership is steadily growing. Each year, the Exchange continues to serve a greater proportion of the California citrus growers—and to serve them more efficiently.

There isn't a chance that these 11,500 growers who have selected the Exchange can be wrong. They have tested other methods and compared results. There has been no guess work in their choice. Their allegiance to the Exchange and its methods is founded on that acid test laid down in 1893—the test of net returns.

Comparative figures prove that the cost of all Exchange services, including advertising and other services not provided by other agencies, is less than the marketing cost alone of any other organization. And they prove, also, that the public and trade willingly pay a premium for the greater dependability, standardization and reputation of Exchange fruit.

These advantages, which Exchange members always enjoy, can be increased still more as the Exchange handles a greater proportion of the California crop. Larger membership means greater co-ordination of the state's crop shipments, less "outside" fruit to upset market plans, and further economies through spreading costs over larger volume.

For your own profit—and the whole industry's—join with the 11,500 growers of the Exchange, in the organization that has become the model for cooperative marketing systems throughout the world.

Talk to the manager of your nearest District Exchange or Exchange Association, or address Growers Service Bureau, California Fruit Growers Exchange, Box 530, Station "C," Los Angeles, California, for further information.

OCEANVIEW SCHOOL TEACHERS RESIGN

OCEANVIEW, May 16. — The resignation of Mrs. Iva Masters, vice principal and seventh grade teacher during the past four years in the Oceanview school, has been submitted to the local school board.

Mrs. Masters plans to teach next year in Oceanside where she will have the eighth grade. Mr. Masters has been employed in Oceanside for the past year and has lived in Oceanside, while it has been necessary for Mrs. Masters and daughter to reside in Oceanview, driving home for the week ends and holidays.

Mrs. Charles Dawes, who has been music instructor in the school this term and whose marriage was an event of Easter, is resigning as she is giving up teaching.

Contracts for teachers are not expected to be ready before May 25.

Mrs. Gladys Ceremeli of the Oceanview faculty was out of school Tuesday on account of illness and the substitute teacher, Mrs. Daisy Preston, of Huntington Beach, was in charge of her classes.

An assembly program will be presented in the school auditorium Friday afternoon by Mrs. Payne's fourth grade pupils and at that time awards for the ticket selling contest put on by the children for the recent school operetta will be made.

Here Is Secret Of Skin Beauty

A wonderful discovery is the new French process which gives MELLO-GLO Face Powder its unparalleled smoothness and makes it stay on longer. The purest powder made—its color is tested. Never gives a pasty or flaky look! Will not irritate or clog the pores! Its youthful bloom stays on longer. Remember the name—MELLO-GLO. Santa Ana Drug Co.—Adv.

DRY SKIN

The cream for the dry skin must be made from oils very much like the oils of the face itself so that it will mingle with the gland secretions and become a part of them, according to Marraine de Pinaud, noted authority on beauty questions. In this way, she says, the dry skin will absorb from the delicate oils of the cream as much as it needs for lubrication and will become soft and smooth. Stimulated by the additional oils, the glands tend to become less sluggish and to function normally. Rub the soluble cream on your face, scoop up a little water and wash away the cream. That simple process is sufficient.

THOUSANDS WATCH HER FAMOUS HANDS

Irma Wright, Champion

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Miss Irma Wright, world's amateur champion typist, demonstrates her speed and methods to audiences all over the country. Since the championship contest last September, huge gatherings in city after city have watched her skilled hands at work.

Her speeding fingers, so smooth and white, never betray the fact that Miss Wright keeps house . . . and washes dishes, too!

"I used to hate dishwashing," she says frankly, "because it left my hands embarrassingly red and so roughened that it reacted on my speed. Of course the soaps I was using were to blame. I knew that the minute I tried Lux in my dishpan. Lux felt entirely different from ordinary soaps. Lux suds were soothing!

"And my hands were whiter and softer after doing the dishes than before! Now I wouldn't think of doing dishes with anything but Lux—Lux makes it so much easier to be both home-maker and champion."
